PREFACE.

Anglo-Saxon was spoken by our forefathers in England for more than five hundred years; from it have sprung the greater part of our local and family names, very many of our old, and almost all our provincial words and sayings, and fifteen twentieths of what we daily think, and speak, and write. No Englishman therefore altogether ignorant of Anglo-Saxon can have a thorough knowledge of his own mother-tongue, while the language itself, to say nothing of the many valuable and interesting works preserved in it, may in copiousness of words, strength of expression, and grammatical precision, vie with modern German.*

The present object is to furnish the learner, if it may be, with a cheaper, easier, more comprehensive, and not less trustworthy guide to this tongue than may hitherto have been within his reach.

The first six chapters are mainly abridged from the Grammar of the late Professor Rask of Copenhagen, as edited by Mr. Thorpe, whom the compiler has to thank for leave to make use of his praiseworthy labours, and for obliging answers to queries.

* See Thorpe's Advertisement to Rask's Grammar

WITHDRAWN

Some alterations and additions seemed called for by the progress of the study since the publication of that work, whence its improved cultivation in this country must be dated. Illustrations from the kindred new Teutonic dialects German and Dutch, with some from Greek and Latin, old and provincial English &c. have taken the place of the Scandinavian* references as fitter for the English learner. A view, however narrow and imperfect, of languages more or less nearly akin, can hardly fail, it is hoped, to awaken in the understanding student, a wish to know something more of comparative philol gy, hitherto so unworthily slighted among ourselves, and so laboriously and skilfully worked out by the Germans.

The hyphen is used throughout to divide the parts of compound words from each other, as also prefixes, and when needful, case-endings and other terminations, from roots; in this as in other tongues, the beginner must accustom himself to parse not only every word in a phrase, but every syllable in a word.

Some rules for gender have been attempted, and a list of exceptions to the general rule of its agreement with the German, together with comparative tables of the cardinal numbers, and of the chief tenses, are added.

The accent, sometimes misplaced or left out by Rask, and too often altogether neglected by others, has been carefully attended to.

^{*} Some acquaintance with Icelandic and the other old northern tongues, above all Gothic, which shows the originals of the A. S. inflections, quantity &c., is of course needful for a perfect knowledge of Anglo-Saxon.

The Syntax is in great part new; the examples mostly gathered from the compiler's own reading.

The Extracts in prose and verse are fitted by explanatory notes for use without a dictionary; an analysis of the narrative verse, partly shortened from Rask, and a literal version of the poetry, are also given. The purpose here being to teach pure Anglo-Saxon only, the selections are all from writers of a good age; one well grounded in the language in its perfect state, will not find it hard to bring down his knowledge of his native tongue, through Semi-Saxon, and old and middle English, to our own time.

The Appendix contains lists of words likely to be confounded by learners, together with a number of additional notes. For the length to which the latter have run some apology may be needed, but it seemed best not to lose the opportunity of bringing in, however irregularly, some matter which may be useful.

To Mr. J. M. Kemble, Editor of Beówulf &c., who shares with Mr. Thorpe the honour of making his countrymen independent of foreigners for a right knowledge of their old national language and literature, sincere thanks are due for much very kind, and most valuable help and advice touching the accent, gender, and other hard and weighty points, on which opinions from such an authority cannot be too highly prized. Obliging hints, and the loan of scarce books from other quarters, must also be thankfully acknowledged.

The compiler, feeling what scanty justice has been done to these various and welcome aids, must add that for those faults both of doing, and of leaving undone, which he cannot hope to have avoided, he alone has to answer. Should this imperfect attempt however, by making the speech of the Anglo-Saxons somewhat easier and more attractive than heretofore to their children, give any of these a better knowledge of the real structure, and true spirit, and a greater love for the power and worth of that tongue, which bids fair one day to overspread the whole earth, some time and labour will not have been spent in vain.

TO THE

ANGLO-SAXON TONGUE.

CHAPTER I.

SECT. I .- The Alphabet, &c.

The A. S. letters are 24, viz.

A	a	[A]		N	n
		[Æ]		0	0
В	b			P	p
C	С			R	r	[p]
D	d	[8]		S	S	[r]
E	е	[e]		T	t	[5]
F	f	[F]		U	u
G	g	[L 3]		\mathbf{W}	W	[7 Pp]
\mathbf{H}	h	[# A]		\mathbf{X}	X	J.
I	i			Y	У
L	-1			p	þ
\mathbf{M}	m	[ന]		Đ	đ

The characters between brackets were written by the Anglo-Saxons, but being for the most part mere corruptions of the Roman forms are now seldom printed.

In later times k was used for c; v and z occur in foreign names only. The abbreviations η for and, η for η at, the, that, and others were in use; in general — shows that m or n is left out.

II.—Accent.

The accent (') over a vowel shows it to be long. The A. S. accented vowels are mostly long by nature; as, lar lore (G. lehre), bær bier (G. bahre), grén green (G. grün), wid wide (G. weit), g od good (G. gut), rúm room, space (G. raum), fýr fire (G. feuer). Some have become long by contraction, g, h, ng, or n, being left out; as, smeagan, smeán to consider, sleahan, slean to slay, gangan, gan to go, fangan, fon to take: in fif five, tod tooth, mud mouth, and the like, the kindred tongues show the omitted n; as, $\pi \in \nu \tau \in$, L. quinque, G. fünf; ¿-Sove, ¿-Sove-oc, L. dens,(1) G. zahn; G. mund: a few from the omission of a vowel; as, tae, tá toe. From the examples above and below, it will be seen that in English a long or double vowel, and in German a long or double vowel, or diphthong, commonly answers to an A. S. long or accented vowel, while short vowels in general correspond in like manner. The accent serves at the same time, though never used for that purpose merely, to distinguish many words of like spelling but different meaning and sound; as, ac but, ac oak; mæst mast, mæst most; wende turned, went, wende weened; is is, is ice; for for, for journey; ful full, ^{(&#}x27;) In A. S. as in Greek, ns does not occur in the same syllable.

fúl foul; hyrde herd, heeper, hýrde heard.(2) Without due attention therefore to the accent, A. S. cannot be rightly written, pronounced, nor understood.(3)

III.—Pronunciation.

The pronunciation is as follows:—

a has the sound of our a in ah; F. &c. short a.

á is longer and broader, like G. &c. long a, approaching our au and aw.

au and aw sound nearly like ow in now, but more open, like G. and Italian au.

æ is pronounced like a in glad.

é nearly as a in dare; G. eh; F. close é.

e sounds like e in send, rather, when thus placed; before a consonant followed by a vowel it resembles the ea in bear, but is shorter, like F. open e. Before a or o it sounds as g; at the end of a syllable it is very lightly sounded, like the F. unaccented e, or the G. e final.

é is pronounced like é.

i and y answer to i in dim.

i before another vowel to y.

í an dý to ee in deem.

o to short o in not , F. open o.

ó to long o in note; F. close ô.

ow is sounded as ow in now.

⁽²⁾ Comp. G. mast, meist; wandte, wähnte; ist, eis; fük, fuhr; voll, faul; hirt, hörte.

⁽³⁾ The more advanced student will find comparison with the Gothic and other ancient dialects the on'v sure guide to the A. S. quantity.

u as u in full.

ú as oo in fool.

The consonants are pronounced as in English, with the following exceptions:—

c is always hard like k; cw stands for qu, which was however used in later times.

f between two vowels, or at the end of a syllable, sounds like v.

g is never soft; when placed however between two of the vowels æ, e, i, or y, or at the beginning of a syllable before e or i, followed by another vowel, it has the sound of y.(') cg is usually written for gg.

h is always strongly aspirated; at the end of a syllable or before a hard consonant it is guttural, like the G. ch, the S. ch in loch, and the Irish gh in lough.

hw anwers to our wh; h occurs also before l, n and r. w sometimes, as in E., stands before r; likewise before l.

p (tha) is our hard th, as in thing.

đ (eth) our soft th, as in other.

p usually begins, d ends a syllable, but they were and are often confounded.

IV.—Spelling.

The A. S. spelling was very variable; the following arethe commonest changes:—

¹ It is likely that g before e or i, and (like h) at the end of a syllable, was guttural, as it often is in German, and always in Dutch.

á - é and é - á; þám, þém; þére, þáre.

a - ea; waldan, wealdan to wield, rule.

a — o and o — a; man, mon (2) man; on, an on. ea — e and e — a; ceaster, cester (3) town; fela, feala many; eá — é; teáh, téh drew.

i - y, eo; hit, hyt it: him, heom them.

í - ý, íe, eó; hí, hý, híe, heó they.

eo — u, y, e; sweord, swurd sword; seolf, sylf, self self.

eó — ú, ý; sweótol, swútol, swýtol manifest.

. g - h; sorg, sorh care, sorrow.

ng, nc, ngc; sang, sanc, sangc song: n and g are often transposed, &c.; pegen, pegn, peng, pen servant, thane: g is sometimes added or cast off at the end of a word; as, hwý, hwýg why? hefig, hefi heavy: it is often left out before d or d; mægden, mæden maiden, mægd, mæd tribe.

cs, sc, hs, x; ácsian, áscian, áhsian, áxian to ask (ax). (4)

V .- Change of Letters.

Other changes of letters take place in inflection and derivation; the German synonyms often undergo the like, the English sometimes.

a is changed into æ, and vice verså; grafan to grave, (G. graben); þú græfst thou gravest, (G. du grabst);

⁽²⁾ P. mon for man, lang for long, and the like.

⁽³⁾ L. castra; hence Chester, -cester, &c. in local names.

⁽⁴⁾ See also nouns II. 2, and irregular comparison.

bæð bath, (G. bad); baðu baths (G. bäðer.)(1) a into e; man, man (G. mann); men (2) men (G. männer).

á into é; hál hale, whole, ge-hélan to heal.

ea into e or y; neah nigh, nehst nyhst nighest, next.

e, o, eo, u into i or y; ren rain, rinan to rain; storm storm (G. sturm); styrman to storm (G. stürmen); weorc work (G. werk), wyrcan to work (G. wirken); hunger hunger, hyngrian to hunger.

eá, eó, ú, into ý; leás loose, (G. los); a-lýsan to re-lease (G. er-lösen); neód need (G. noth); nýdan to force (G. nöthigen); scrúd shroud, scrýdan to shroud.

ó into é; dóm doom, déman to deem, doom.

bb into f; a-hebban to exalt, a-hafen exalted (4).
c and cc into h; sécan to seek, ic sóhte I sought;
feccan to fetch, (ge-)freht fretcht(5).

g into h and vice versá; wrígan to cover, ic wráh I covered; beorh mountain, plur. beorgas(6).

s into r(7); freósan to freeze, (ge-)froren frozen. å into d(8); sníðan to cut (G. schneiden), sniden cut (G. ge-schnitten).

Several other changes take place in the formation of imperfects I. 3. and complex; likewise in nouns II. 2., III. 1. 3. and in adjectives.

VI.—Correspondence of Letters.

Attention to the correspondence of A. S. with English and German letters helps not only to recognise words already known in a kindred tongue, but to settle their derivation, spelling, and quantity. Thus—á answers to E. long o; G. ei, l. e; ban (9) bone, G. bein; mare (10) more, greater, G. mehr.

eá to E. l. e; G. l. o, a, au: streám stream, G. strom; sceáp sheep, G. schaf; ge-leáfa be-lief, G. g-laube.

ea to E. short a, l. o; G. s. a: scearp sharp, G. scharf; ceald cold, G. kalt.

æ to E. and G. a, e: gæst guest, G. gast; fæst fast, G. fest.

é to E. l. e, a, o; G. l. a, ei: séd seed, G. saat; hér hair, G. haar; mést (11) most, G. meist.

é to E. l. e; G. l. ü, ä: céne bold, keen, G. kühn; wénan to ween, imagine, G. wähnen.

í to E. l. i; G. ei: síde side, G. seite.

eo to E. a, o, u, e; G. e, ie: deorc dark, sweord sword, G. schwert; ceorl churl, G. kerl; feoll fell, G. fiel.

ó to E. oo; G. l. u: flór floor, G. flur.

eó, eów to E. l. e; G. l. ie, eu: deóp deep, G. tief; deor dear, G. theuer; cneów knee, G. knie.

ú to E. ou, ow, oo; G. l. au, u: mús mouse, G. maus; cú cow, G. kuh; rúm room, space, G. raum.

(9) S. bane.

(10) S. mair.

(11) S. maist.

ý to E. l. i, e; G. l. eu, au, ö: fýr fire, G. feuer; brýd bride, G. braut: hýran to hear, G. hören.

c (before a soft vowel) to E. and G. ch, k: cyle chill, G. kühle; stician to stick, G. stechen.

cc to E. tch, ck; G. ck: streccan to stretch, G. strecken; liccian to lich, G. lecken.

se to E. sh, sk; G. sch: scyld shield, G. schild; disc dish, table, G. tisch; tusc tush.

g (before a soft vowel sometimes) to E. y, G. j: gear year, G. jahr; girstan-dæg yester-day.

r and s are often transposed: forst frost, G. frost: bridd (young) bird; Hacse flask, G. flasehe.

CHAPTER II.

I.—Nouns. Gender.

The genders, as in Greek, Latin, German, &c. are three, viz. neuter, masculine, feminine; the first two, as in those tongues, closely resembling each other, the last differing widely from both. A. S. nouns in general agree in gender with the corresponding German; as,

Neuter: \begin{cases} \text{wif} & G. \text{weib} \text{woman, wife.} \\ \text{cild} & G. \text{kind} \text{child.} \end{cases}

Masculine: mona G. mond moon.

Feminine: sunne G. sonne sun.

The chief exceptions are:-

Neut. ear G. ähre (f.) ear of corn.

- fæsten G. feste (f.) fastness.

- fyder G. feder (f.) feather, wing.

			COMS	XIVIN ID E	216
Neut.	mód	G.	muth	(m.)	mind, mood.

entaine)	win(1)	G.	wein	(m.)	wine.
Masc.	cræft	G.	kraft	(f.)	power, craft, art.
movement	ende	Gr.	enda	(n.)	ènd.

Fem.	bóc	G.	buch	(n.)	book.

Barrens	heorte(4)	G.	herz	(n.)	heart.
. specially	ge-sýhđ	G.	ge-sicht.	(n.)	sight.

Moreover, all A. S. nouns ending in -dóm, -hád, and -scipe are masculine, while G. nouns in -thum are some neuter, some masculine, in -heit and -schaft feminine; A. S. in -nes (-nys, -nis) feminine, G. in -niss some neuter, some feminine.

G. torf (n.) turf.

G. wicht (m.) wight, being.

turf

Some words are of more than one gender; thus flód(5) flood is neut. (II. 1.) and masc. (II. 2.); sé sea masc. (II. 2.) and fem. (I. 3.); bend band, bond masc. (II. 2.) and fem. (II. 3.); lác gift, office, &c. all three (II. 1. 2. 3.), but oftenest neuter.

Olv-og mass. L. vin-um, neut.
 L. mare, neut.
 L. sal-us, fem.
 Καρδ-ια fem. L. cor, neut.

⁽⁵⁾ G. fluth fem.; see masc. and fem.; band neut. and masc.

FURTHER RULES FOR GENDER.

- I. Nouns ending in -tl, -ed, -incle, and diminutives in -en; likewise all having the nominative and accusative alike in both numbers are neuter.
- II. Nouns in -a, -m, -ls, -ad, -od, -e (from verbs) and -ling; likewise all forming the genitive singular in -a, or the nominative plural in -as are masculine.
- III. Nouns in -æđ, -uđ, -đ (after a consonant) -eo, -u (of quality from adjectives) -e (from adjectives) -ung, and -leást are feminine.
- IV. The gender of compound words depends on that of the last part; thus wif-man woman is masculine. (1)

II .- Declension.

Nouns are divided into two Orders, the Simple and the Complex; (2) the former having one Declension of three Classes for the three Cenders, the latter two Declensions of three Classes each (3).

The Simple Order, answering to the Greek and Latin pure nouns, contains those ending in an essential vowel; viz. -e in the neuter, -a in the masculine, and -e in the feminine. The Complex Order, answering to the Gr. and L. impure nouns, comprises all ending in a consonant, together with some in an unessential -e or -u.

⁽²⁾ In Grimm's system Simple Nouns are called weak; Complex, strong.

⁽³⁾ For the grounds of this division, see Rask's Grammar, pp. 26-30.

RULES FOR DECLENSION.

- I. All Nouns have the nominative and accusative alike in the plural.
- II. All Nouns form the ablative and dative plural in -um, often changed to -on, and sometimes again to -an.
- III. The ablative and dative are always alike in each number.
- IV. Neuters, as in Greek, Latin, and German, have the nominative and accusative alike in each number.
- V. Feminines vary the nominative and accusative singular; but form the ablative, dative, and genitive singular alike.
- VI. The Simple Order forms its genitive plural in ena, the Complex in -a. (1)

III.—Simple Order, or Declension I.

The First Declension contains a few neuters ending in -e, all masculines in -a, and all feminines in -e; the nominative plural is formed in -an(2). The three Classes are so much alike that they may be shown at one view.

⁽¹⁾ Participial nouns form it in -ra (see II. 2.) like indefinite adjectives. Complex feminines (II. 3. and III. 3.) sometimes have a Simple gen. plural.

⁽²⁾ G. nouns forming their plur. in -en (-n) are Simple, all others Complex.

In like manner are declined eare ear, cliwe clew; hearra lord, guma man, wyrhta wright, workman, tima time, draca dragon, hlisa fame; hlæfdige lady, cirice (circe) church, wuce week, eordeearth, wise wise, way(2) &c. Also some contracted nouns; as, frea lord (masc.) tá toe, beó(3) bee (fem.), making frean &c. plural tán, táum, taena; beón, beóna &c. Æ' law, sæseu(4), and eá river (likewise fem.) are indeclinable, except sometimes gen. eás (5), nom. plural eán.

⁽²⁾ Manna man and heofone heaven are much less common than man III. 2. and heofon II. 2.

⁽³⁾ G. zehe, biene, not contracted.

^(*) Sá is also declinable, as 11. 2.

⁽⁵⁾ All A. S. nouns originally formed the genitive in -s; see p. 70, n. 4.

IV .- Complex Order. Declension II.

CLASS I.

The Second Declension, first Class, contains many neuters ending in one or more consonants.

Examples-leaf leaf, word word.

SINGULAR.

Nom. & Acc.	leáf	word

Thus are declined ear ear of corn, hus house, deor (1) beast, ge-hat promise, hors horse, spel story, spell, wif woman, wife, bearn child, bairn, lamb lamb &c.; feoh (2) fee, money, cattle makes feo, feos.

V.—CLASS II.

The Second Declension, second Class, comprises all regular masculines ending in a consonant, all complex ones in -e, and a few in -u (-o); the plural is formed in -as; some monosyllables change æ to a in the plural.

⁽¹⁾ Hence deer-" Rats and mice, and such small deer."

Examples-dél part, deal, ende end, dæg day.

Thus also cyning (cing) king, smiđ smith, stán stone, weg way, freo-dom freedom, munuc-had monkhood; mete meat, rædere reader, weordscipe worship; stæf (2) staff, letter, mæg kinsman, &c. Participial nouns in -end usually have the nominative and accusative sing. and plur. alike, and make -ra in the gen. plural. Freond friend, and feond foe, fiend have plur. frýnd, fýnd, freónd, feónd, or freóndas &c. Dissyllables in -el (-ol), -en (-on), and -er (-or) are contracted in the oblique cases and plural; thus engel angel, dryhten lord, ealdor prince, make engle, engles, englas &c. dryhtne &c. Heofen (-on) heaven has abl. and dat. heofene, heofone, or heofne and so on. Monad (mond) month forms monde &c. Winter winter has abl. and dat. wintra, nom. pl. wintras, or winter. Feld field, ford ford, and sumer (-or) summer make abl. and dat. felda, forda, sumera.

⁽²⁾ Comp. G. stab, stäbe; &c. G. buch-stab is letter.

Fæder father is seldom varied in the singular, and never contracted. Nouns in -h, and -u (-o), change them to g and w; as, beáh ring, beáge, beáges &c.; bealu bale, injury, bealwe, and the like: a few drop the -h; as, feorh life, feore &c. Those in -sc often take x (cs) in the plural; as, fisc fish, fixas &c.; sometimes throughout; fix, fixe &c.

VI.—CLASS III.

The Second Declension, third Class, contains all regular feminines ending in a consonant; the plural is formed in -a.

Examples-stefen (stefn) voice, sprác speech.

SINGULAR.

Nom.	stefen	spræc
Acc.	stefn-e	spræc-e

Thus are declined sawel soul, wylen female slave, frofer comfort, ge-samnung assembly, écnys eternity, lag law, stow place, peod people, lar lore, myrd mirth, bén prayer, &c. Dissyllables in -el (-ol), -en, -er (-or), are contracted in the oblique cases, and often in all; as, sawl, wyln, frofr. A single final consonant after a short vowel is doubled; as syn sin, accus. &c. synne. The gen. plur. is sometimes in -ena. Nouns in -ung sometimes form the abl. and dat. in -a. Hand hand, makes accus. hand, abl. and dat. handa. Miht might, tid time, tide, woruld world, have the accus. like the nom.; woruld sometimes makes gen. worldes. (1) N iht night, and wiht wight remain unchanged in the accus. singular, and nom. plural.

VII.—Declension III.

CLASS I.

The Third Declension, first Class, contains all complex neuters in -e, all in -u, all neuter dissyllables in er (-or), -el (-ol), and -en, some in ed (-od), and many monosyllables in a consonant. The plural is in -u (-o), often changed to -a; some monosyllables change æ, and a few ea, into a in the plural.

So likewise scip ship, lim limb, deófol(1) devil, wæter water, ge-writ writing, writ; wíte punishment, e-mære boundary, spere spear, melu meal, flour; æð bath, glæs (2) glass, geat gate, &c.

Dissyllables are mostly contracted; thus, heafod head, tacen token, wunder wonder, make heafde, heafdes &c. tacne, wundre &c.; nyten beast, neat, weofod altar, &c. are usually not. Those in -en sometimes double then in the oblique cases; as, westen desert, westenne &c. Cild child, cealf calf, and æg egg, form their plural cildru (-a) (3), cealfru, ægru; the first however often has cild or cilde. Þýstru darkness, lendenu loins, &c. have no singular. Nouns in -u take w, and are usually contracted, forming the plural in -a; as, searu array, ambush, searwe, searwes; plursearwa &c.

VIII.—CLASS II.

The Third Declension, second Class, comprises masculines in -u (-o), forming their plural in -a, some irregulars (masc. and fem.) in -er (-or), changing their vowel in the ablative and dative, and making -u (-o, -a) in the plural, a few (masc.) changing their vowel as above, and in the nominative and accusative plural, &c.

⁽²⁾ Comp. G. fass, fässer; glas, gläser.

⁽³⁾ Hence children, P. child-er; comp. G. kind, kind-er; kalb, kälb-er; ei, ei-er; D. kind, kind-er-en; kalf, kalv-er-en; ei, eij-er-en.

So too are declined wudu wood, sidu custom, medo mead, metheglin; moder mother, dohter daughter, sweoster sister: fot foot, and tod tooth, follow man' making fét, téd. (5) Sun-ena is rare.

Leóde (G. leute) people, Dene Danes, Engle Angles, Englishmen, and a few more in -e with no singular, make leódum, leóda, &c.

IX.—CLASS III.

The Third Declension, third Class, contains all feminines ending in -u or -o, also some irregulars which change their vowel, &c. The former sometimes make the genitive plural in -ena.

Examples—denu vale, bóc book, burh burgn, town-

Nom.	den-u	} bóc	burh

Gen.	den-a (-ena)	bóc-a	burg-a.

Like denu are declined lufu love, gifu gift, grace, snóru daughter-in-law, caru care, lagu water, &c. Mænigeo (-u) many, multitude, yldo age, eld, brédo breadth, and some others in-o are indeclinable, except abl. and dat. plur. mænigum. Duru door makes abl. and dat. sing. dura. Collectives in -waru, as burh-waru town's-folk, form plur. -ware, gen. -wara or -warena. Mús mouse, lús louse, cú cow, gós goose, bróc breeches, follow bóc, making plur. mýs mice, lýs lice, cý kye, gés (1) geese, bréc. Cú sometimes has gen. sing. cús, (2) gen. plur. cúna. Turf turf, and furh furrow, follow burh, making tyrf, &c.

CHAPTER III.

I.—Adjectives

As in German &c. have a Definite and an Indefinite inflection: the former is used when the adjective is preceded by the definite article, by any other demonstrative, or by a possessive pronoun; the latter always else. There are three Declensions, one for the Definite form, agreeing closely with the Simple Order, two for the Indefinite, answering, though not so exactly, to the Complex Order of Nouns.

II .- Definite Declension.

Example—(gód good) þæt gód-e (3) &c. the good.

			SINGULAR.

		Gen. h	æs gód-an	þære gód-an

PLURAL. N. & A. þa gód-an A. & D. þám gód-um

Gen. þára gód-ena.

This declension is used for all adjectives, participles, and pronouns in general; participles present however take -ra instead of -ena in the genitive plural. Monosyllables commonly change æ to a throughout; as, smæl small, þæt smale, se smala, seó smale the small, and so on. Adjectives in -h, as heáh high, usually change it to g when the case-ending is a vowel, as, þæt heág-e, &c.; otherwise the h is dropt; as, abl. &c. heán. Those in -u (-o), as near-u narrow, take w throughout; as, þæt near-we, &c. (4)

Thus are declined adjectives ending in -e, -el (-ol), -isc, and -wis; likewise most monosyllables, all participles present, participles past of the Simple Order, superlatives and pronouns; as, wyrd-e worth, worthy, dýg-el dark, sprec-ol talkative, menn-isc human, ge-wis sure, sód true, sooth, leóht light, heard hard, seóc sick, wrec wretched, fæst fast, &c.

Those in -e drop it when a syllable of inflection is added; wyrd-ne, wyrd-um, wyrd-re, &c.

Adjectives in -h and -u follow the rules given above; accus. masc. heá-nne, nearo-ne; abl. &c. fem. heá-re, near-we or near-e; gen. plur. heá-ra, near-wa or near-a.

Thus are declined monosyllables with æ (except fæst) &c., most adjectives with derived endings, and participles past of the Complex Order; some of both the latter, however, follow Declension I. As, læt late, slow, swær heavy, glæd glad, bær bare, swæs sweet, dear, til good, ead-ig blessed, prosperous, fær-lic sudden, dangerous, ge-sib-sum peaceable, mæg-er meagre, hlutt-or clear, fæg-en glad, fain. Some dissyllables are contracted in certain forms, as, hal-ig holy, hal-ge, hal-ges, &c., but gen. plur. hal-igra and the like.

V.—Comparison.

The Comparative and Superlative Degrees are regularly formed by adding -or and -ost (1), (E. and G. -er and -est), to the indefinite form; as, leof, leof-or, leof-ost dear, dear-er, dear-est (G. lieb, lieb-er, lieb-est): æ usually becomes a; as, smæl, smal-or, smal-ost, small, small-er, small-est. (G. schmal, schmäl-er, schmäl-est.) The ending -or is however only adverbial; as an adjective the Comparative is formed in -re, -ra, -re, whether used definitely or indefinitely; as, (bæt) leóf-re, (se) leóf-ra, (seó) leóf-re (the) dearer; (G. das &c. lieb-re) (bæt) smæl-re &c. (the) smaller; (G. das &c. schmäl-re). The Superlative has both the definite and indefinite inflections, the former in -ost, or -est, (also the adverbial form), the latter in -oste, -osta, -oste, or -este &c.; as, leóf-ost dearest, bæt leóf-oste, or leóf-este &c. the dearest; (G. das &c. lieb-ste.)

Meh, mec (L. mihi, G. mich) and peh, pec (G. dich) sometimes occur for me and pe: likewise the poetical úsih, úsic, and eówih, eówic for ús and eów; and uncit and incit, for unc and inc.

There being, as in English, no reflective pronoun, the personals are used instead; as, ic me reste I rest me ('yself); pa peówas wyrmdon híg, the servants were warming them (·selves). Sylf self, same, declined as an adjective both definitely and indefinitely (I.), and agreeing with the pronoun or noun, gives a strong reflective sense; as, ic sylf or sylfa I myself; fram me sylfum of myself; pú sylf thou thyself; we sylfe we ourselves, &c.; seó sylfe tíd the same time.(2) Sometimes the pronoun stands in the dative before sylf; as, (ic) me sylf I myself; him-sylf he himself.(3)

⁽¹⁾ Comp. δ , $\dot{\eta}$, $\dot{\delta}\nu$, oi, $\alpha \dot{i}$; L. id, is, ea, eum, ejus, ii; G. es, ihn, ihm, ihr; D. het, hij, &c.

⁽³⁾ Like F. moi-mème, lui-même; hence seemingly my-self, thy-self, &c.: self is properly no more a noun than $a\dot{v}\tau c_{s}$, L. ipse, or F. méme.

II.—Possessives.

The Possessive Pronouns are formed, as in German, from the genitives of the two first persons; as, min (G. mein) mine, my; pin (G. dein) thine, thy; uncer, ure (G. unser) our; incer, eower (G. euer) your: like other Pronouns in general, they are declined as indefinite adjectives I. Those in -er are usually contracted; as uncre, eowres, and the like. U're forms urum, ures, &c; but remains unchanged in the whole feminine singular. The poetical user (user) for ure is thus declined:—

G.	ússes .	ússe
	Plural.
	NT 0 A /

N. & A. ússe, úser A. & D. ússum G. ússa.

The genitive of the third person is used unchanged; his, its, his, hire her, hira their. To make these reflective, the genitive of sylf agreeing with the pronoun, or the indefinite adjective agen own, agreeing with the noun, must be used; as, pin sylfes bearn thine own son; to his agenre pearfe to his own need. Sin occurs in poetry as a possessive of the third person; not however like G. sein, for L. ejus, but for L. suus only.

III.—Demonstratives.

The Demonstrative Pronouns are pat, se, se6 that, likewise the relative which, who, that, and the article the; (1) and pis, pes, pess this.

pæne, pæm, páre, pæra, are sometimes used for pone, pám, pære, pára; lik wise pæs for pás; the s in pise, &c. is often double., pissere and pissera occur also for pisse and pissa. The indeclinable pe is used for all cases of pæt, se, seó, as a relative; combined with it it forms pæt-te (4) that which, se-pe he that, seó-pe she that. Pæt, se, seó is sometimes repeated in a sentence, standing first as a demonstrative, and next as a relative; but pe commonly stands as pe is sometimes used along with hit, &c. as a relative; as, pe purh hine through whom.

Swá is sometimes used (like G. so) as an indeclinable relative.

Ylc same, follows the indefinite declension.

Swylc such, is often repeated, standing in the second place adverbially; as, Ælc ping on-gitan swylc swylce hit is to understand each thing so as it is.

IV.—Interrogatives.

The Interrogative Pronouns are hwæt, hwá? what? who? hwylc? which? hwæder whether? which? The first has no plural, and is thus declined:

	Neuter. hwæt		Masc. & Fem. hwá
Acc.	hwæt		hwone (hwæne)

		Gen.	hwæs (5)

It answers to L. quis not qui, and is never used as a relative: with a neuter adjective it governs the genitive; as, hwæt yfeles? what evil? it is also (like G. et-was, was) used not interrogatively, for somewhat, a little; as, hwæt lytles some little.

⁽⁵⁾ From hwám and hwæs, are whom and whose.

V.—Indefinites.

The Indefinite pronouns are swá-hwæt(-swá) whatso-ever, swá-hwá (-swá) who-so-ever, swá-hwylc (-swá) which-so-ever, &g-hwæt (ge-hwæt), &g-hwylc, &c. whatsoever, &c. which follow the declension of the chief word in the compound. Others are ælc, each, every one, eall all, wnig any, nwnig none whatever, an-lipig (én-lipig) single, alone, &c. Ge-noh enough is sometimes indeclinable. A'n one, a, and sum some, a, a certain, serve for the indefinite article, which is however often not expressed: sum placed after a genitive cardinal number implies one above it; as, fif-tyna sum one of sixteen, one with fifteen others. Manig (mænig) many sometimes has nom. and accus. plur. manega. Fela much, many is indeclinable: feawa (fea) few, sometimes has abl. and dat. plur. feáwum, gen. feára; both often govern a genitive plural; as, mádma fela many treasures; feá worda few words. Man (man) is used (like G. man, and F. on) (') indefinitely for one, they; as, Me man sægde they told me (G. man sagte mir). From wiht (wuht) creature, being, (wight, whit) are formed á-wiht (á-wuht) contracted to áwht, áht anything, ought; and nán-wiht (-wuht) náwht, náht(2) nothing, nought. Other indefinite Pronouns are óder (-or) other, second (L. alius, and alter for secundus), áwder, áder one of two (L. alter duorum), náwder (nádor), neither of two (L. neuter), égder

A'n, like all other pronouns, follows indef. Decl. I., sometimes making accus. masc. ænne; thus too nán none. Used definitely, áne, ána, áne, and standing after its noun, &c., it means alone. Twá (2) and preo are thus declined:—

Bá, begen, bá both, follows twá; prefixed to twá it forms bá-twá (bú-tú) (4) which is indeclinable. The numbers feower to twelf inclusive, when used absolutely, have a nom. in -e, &c.; as, ealle seofone all seven; án of þám twelfum one of the twelve; án ^{(&#}x27;) The t- is probably a remnant of the prefix hond- retained before the vowel.

⁽²⁾ S. twa. G. zwei, zwo. (3) Twain. G. zween.

⁽⁴⁾ Hence both, G. beide; comp. Italian ambe-due pissa fífa one of these five. Those above eahta usually govern a genitive. Twentig and the others in -tig make abl. and dat. -tigum, gen. -tigra. Hund prefixed to the tens after sixtig (answering to $-\kappa o \nu \tau - a$, L. -gint-a) is sometimes dropt when hund hundred goes before; as, scipa an hund and eahtatig, of ships one hundred and eighty. Hund (hundred) follows II. 1; hundred and þúsend, III. 1.

Units are placed before tens, as, six and fiftig, six and fifty. In numbers above a hundred, the smaller stands last, and the noun is repeated; as, Hundteontig wintra and seofon and feowertig wintra, a hundred winters and seven and forty winters. (5)

Wintre affixed to numbers forms adjectives denoting age; as, fram twi-wintrum cilde, from the child of two years.

Units combined with ordinal tens stand first when cardinals, last when ordinals; as, an and pryttigode one and thirtieth; by twentigodan dæge and by feordan dæge Septembris, on the twenty and fourth day of September.

Healf half placed after an ordinal number (like G. halb) reduces it by half; as, 6der-healf (lit. second-half) one and a half, (G. andert-halb); pridde-healf

(lit. third-half) two and a half (G. dritte-halb).(1) A'n, twá, preo, form én-e once, tw1-wa (tu-wa) twice, pry-wa thrice; with the other cardinals, and all the ordinals, síð a time is used in the ablative for the same purpose; as, feower, fíf, &c. síð um or síð on four, five, &c. times; (þý) forman, óð re, pryddan, &c. síð e the first, second, third, &c. time.

CHAPTER V.

I.-Verbs. Conjugation.

There are two Orders of Verbs, as of Nouns; viz. the Simple and the Complex; (2) the former containing pure or open Verbs answering to the Greek in -aeiv, -eeiv, and -oeiv, and to the Latin in -are, -ēre, and -ire; the latter impure or close Verbs, answering to the Greek regulars, and to the Latin in -ere, &c.(3) The Simple Order forms its imperfect by adding -ode (-ede), -de, or -te to the root; the participle past by adding -od (-ed), -d, or -t: in the Complex the imperfect becomes monosyllabic and changes its vowel; the participle past ends in -en.(4) The former is divided into three Classes forming one Conjugation; the latter into two Conjugations of three Classes each.

- (1) Comp. ήμισυ-τριτος, L. sesqui-alter, -tertius.
- (2) Simple Verbs are by Grimm termed Weak, Complex Strong.
- (3) See Rask's Grammar, pp. 67-70.
- (4) E. and G. verbs in general follow the A.S., though complex forms have in each not seldom become simple.

The first form of the present indicative, and of the imperative plural, is used when the pronoun comes first, or is left out; as, we lufiad we love, hýrad hear; the second when the pronoun follows close; as, telle ge tell ye? The subjunctive plural sometimes ends in -an or -en; as, lufian, hýrden, and the like. The gerund, which is always preceded by tó, and seems to be a kind of dative of the infinitive, answers to our infinitive present, active and passive, and to the Latin supines, infinitive future, active and passive, &c.; as, Come pú ús tó for-spillanne? camest thou to destroy us? L. nos perditum. Hwæder is édre tó cwedanne? whether is easier to say? L. facilius dictu. Eart pú se-pe tó cumenne eart? art thou he that is (art) to come?

L. qui venturus est. Heó býð tó lufigenne (¹) she is (must be, or ought) to be loved, L. amanda est. The infinitive of the first Class is often formed in -igan, sometimes in -igean, for -ian, and g is put in or left out in some other forms with little or no change of pronunciation. The Gerund of the third Class sometimes makes -enne for -anne. Ge- may be prefixed to any part of verbs in general, but is oftenest used with the imperfect, and especially with the participle past, though not, as in German, to be considered the sign of the latter.(²)

IV.—Class I.

Like lufian are conjugated:

- (2) Ge- is seldom used before another prefix.
- (3) Neut. L. vigilare; act. weccan.
- (4) Neut. L. pendere; act. hangan, hón.

Some verbs of this Class, especially those having e for their vowel, form their imperfect and part. past in -ede and ed, as well as -ode and od; as, herian to praise, seglian to sail, ge-fremian to profit, which make herede, (ge-)hered, or herode, herod; seglede, and the like: -ode and -od are sometimes changed into -ade and -ad. Swerian to swear, borrows some tenses from a complex form, making imperf. swerede or swor swore; imp. subj. swore; imper. swera or swere; part. past (ge-) sworen sworn. Folgian, fyligan, or fylian to follow, has imperf. folgode, fyligde, or fylide; imper. folga or fylig.

V.—Class II.

The second Class forms its imperfect and participle past in -de and -ed, or in -te and -t, according to its characteristic letter; the hard consonants, viz. t, p, c, x, requiring -te and -t; the soft, viz. d, d, f, g, w, l, m, n, r, s, taking -de and -ed; as,

týme	týmde	týmed	teem(-ed)
wéne	wénde	wéned	ween(-ed)
lære	lærde	læred	teach
rése	ræsde	ræsed	rush(-ed).

Some verbs in -gan are contracted; as, preagan, preán to vex, reproach, tweógan, tweón to doubt: pres. preage or preá, preást, preád; pl. preagad, preád, &c.; tweóge or tweó, tweóst, tweód, &c.; imperf. preáde, tweóde; part. past preád, tweód.

The second and third persons singular sometimes make -est, -ed, especially when many consonants might otherwise meet; as, nemne (I) name, nemnest, nemned; imperf. nemde: some have both forms; as, léde, létst, lét, or lédest, léded; part. past léded or léd. Verbs with s, d, and t form the third person in -t; as, rése, rést; sende, sent; méte, mét: those with d in d, as cýde, cýd; imperf. cýdde or cýdde; p. past cýded or cýd. Verbs in this and the following classes with a double characteristic, drop one letter and take -e in the imperative; as, dyppe, dype, and the like. To this class belong several transitives, derived from intransitives of the Complex Order; as, bærnan to burn (act.), from byrnan to burn (neut.); drencan (') to drench, from drincan to drink; fyllan to fell, from feallan to fall; a-réran to rear, from a-risan to arise; sencan to sink (act.), from sincan to sink (neut.); settan to set, from sittan to sit; ærnan to let run, from yrnan to run. Lybban to live, and hycgan to think, borrow some forms from leofian, and hogian: they are thus conjugated:—

VI.—Class III.

The third Class changes e into ea, é into ó, &c. in the imperfect, forming it in -de or -te, and the part. past in -d or -t by the rules given above. The English synonyms commonly change the vowel in like manner, the German sometimes.

Secge makes 3 sing. pres. segđ or sagađ; imper. sege or saga. The impersonal pincan (G. dünken) to seem, must not be confounded with pencan (G. denken) to think. Pincan makes 3 sing. pres. pincđ (G. dünkt) (me-)thinks; plur. pincađ; imperf. púhte (G. dünkte) (me-)thought; part. past (ge-)púht.

A few transitives also from complex intransitives belong to this class; as, a-cwellan to kill (quell), from a-cwelan to perish (quail); lecgan (1) to lay, from licgan to lie; weccan to awaken, from wacan to wake. Willan(2) to will, and nyllan(3) to will not, are thus conjugated:

Part. pres. wesende

Part. past (ge-)wesen.

With some of these forms the negative ne is thus combined:

Pres. 1. (ic) neom (I) am not. 3. nis (nys); imperf. næs, &c.; subj. imperf. nære, &c.

Cwedan to say is thus conjugated:

Indic. pres. cweđe, cwyst, cwyd; imperf. cwæđ, cwáde, cwæđ (quoth), pl. cwádon; subj. pres. cweđe, imperf. cwáde; part. past (ge-)cweden: it is otherwise regular.

IX.—Class II.

In the Second Class á becomes é; ea, y; eá, ý; ó, é, in the second and third persons: the imperf. has é, or eó (e or eo).

First pers. pres.	Third person.	Imperf.	Part. past.
læte(1)	læt	let	(ge-)læten

heáwe hew	heáweđ	heów	heówen hewn
grówe grow	gréwð	greów grew	grówen grown

⁽³⁾ Héht is a relic of the reduplication in use in Gothic as in Greek, and of which Latin retains several instances; leólc from lácan to plas (O. lake), is of like nature.

The imperfects without an accent are of doubtful quantity.

Hátan when meaning to be called, has the simple imperfect hátte, but part. past (ge-)háten.

Hó makes pres. plur. hód, hó; imper. hóh; infin. hangan or hón, and is followed by fangan, fón to take.

Cneów and the like often become cnéw &c.

Gangan, gán (1) to go, dón to do, and búan to inhabit, cultivate (G. bauen, L. colere) are thus conjugated:

	INDICATIVE.
Pres. 1. gange, gá(2)	dó	búe

gale	gælð	stood gól	galen
enchant . spane allure	spænð	spón	spanen
sceade part, shed	scyt	sceód(¹)	sceaden

Sleá makes imper. slýh or sléh; infin. sleán: thus also leán to blame, and þweán to wash; p. past þwegen, þwogen. Stande sometimes has standest, standeð.

XI.—Conjugation III.

In the Third Conjugation the vowel remains the same in the present; but that of the imperfect is changed in the second person singular, and in the whole plural: the part past has either the same vowel as these persons, or one near akin.

Examples: -- bindan to bind, drifan to drive, clufan to cleave.

⁽²⁾ G. rieche, roch, ge-rochen; schiesse, schoss, &c.

Ceósan to choose, makes third pers. pres. cýst; imperf. ceás chose, second pers. cure, plur. curon; p. past coren(1).

Seódan to seethe, has third pers. sýd; imperf. seád, sode, &c.; p. past soden sodden.(2) Thus also others in -san and -dan.

Fleoge is contracted to fleo, plur fleod, fleo; infin. fleogan, fleon; thus likewise teogan, teon to draw, tug: wreon to cover, and peon to thrive, have only the contracted forms.

Seón to see, makes imperf. seáh or séh, sáwe or sége, &c. imper. seóh or sýh; part. present seónde; part. past (ge-)sewen, or segen.

Ge-feón (-feán) to rejoice, has imperf. ge-feáh or -féh, ge-fage or -fege; part. past ge-fagen, -fægen. Beón to be, is defective:

Infin. beón. Ger. tó beónne. Part. pres. beónde.

XV.—Anomalous Verbs.

The following verbs are Anomalous, having for their present an old imperfect of the Complex Order, and for their imperfect one formed since after the Simple Order.

Pres. 1.3. A'h, 2. áge, pl. ágon (owe); imperf. áhte (ought); infin. ágan; p. past. ágen: own, possess. Likewise combined with ne; náh, náhte, &c.

An, 2. unne, pl. unnon; imperf. úde; inf. unnan; p. past (ge-)unnen: grant.

Can(°) (can); 2. cunne or canst, pl. cunnon; imp. cúde (could); inf. cunnan; p. past (ge-)cúd: know, ken, be able.

Deáh, duge, dugon; imp. dóhte; inf. dúgan: be good, brave, worth.

Dear, dearst, durron; subj. durre: imp. dorste (durst); inf. dearan: dare.

Ge-man(3), ge-manst, ge-munon: imp.ge-munde; inf ge-munan: remember.

Mæg(4), miht, magon (may); subj. mæge (mage); imp. mihte (meahte) (might); inf. magan: be able.

Mót(5), móst, móton; subj. móte; imp. móste: may, might, must.

Sceal(6) (shall), scealt (shalt), sceolon (sculon); subj. scyle; imp. sceolde (should); inf. sculan: owe.

Wát(7) (wot), wást, witon; imp. wiste (wisse) (wist); subj. wíte; imper. wíte, wítað; inf. wítan; ger. tó wítanne (to wit); p. pres. wítende; p. past witen: know. Thus also nýtan to know not.

- (2) Comp. L. novi I know; G. kenne, kann kannte, konnte, &c.
- (3) Comp. L. defective me-min-i 1 remember.
- (*) G. mag, möge, mögte, &c.
- (5) G. muss, musste, &c.
- (6) G. soll, sollte, &c.
- (?) Comp. oiδα I know; G. weiss, wusste, wissen; L. scio; as distinguished from can (cn á we) γινωσκω, L. novi.

pearf('), pearft or purfe, purfon; subj. purfe; imp. porfte; inf. pearfan: need.

XVI.—Auxiliaries, &c.

The A. S. has no future tense, the present serving for both: wille and sceal, like G. will and soll, imply will, duty, and the like, and are not used like will and shall, to form a simple future; the present of be on has commonly a future power. The perfect and pluperfect are formed as in English, German, &c. by means of the verb to have; as, ic habbe (ge-)lufod I have loved.(2) The participle past being as in the above-named tongues the only true passive form, the passive tenses are formed throughout by the help of the auxiliaries wesan, weordan, and be on to be; as, present ic eom, or weorde lufod(3) I am loved; imperf. ic was, or weard lufod; perf. ic eom lufod worden I have been loved; pluperf. ic was lufod worden I had been loved; future, ic be of lufod I shall be loved.

Impersonal verbs are like those of other languages; as, hit rind it rains; hit ge limpd it happens. Some have a passive sense; as, a-lýfd it is allowed, lawful (L. licet); ge wyrd it is agreed, seems good (L. convenit).

⁽²⁾ The imperfect is often used for the pluperfect.

⁽³⁾ Comp. G. ich habe, hatte, werde, wurde, ge-liebt; ich bin, war, geliebt worden.

CHAPTER VI.

I .- Formation of Words. Prefixes.

As in Greek, Latin, German, &c. this branch of the language must be strictly attended to, if we would learn the origin, gender, and inflection of words: it consists of Derivation, and Composition, in both which the A. S. closely resembles the German. Derivation either modifies the meaning of a word by putting before it a prefix, or changes its part of speech, and inflection, by adding a termination. Composition forms new words by joining one or more together.

The following are the chief prefixes:

un- (on-) (L. in-; E. and G. un-): un-scyldig (G. un-schuldig) in-nocent; un-tigian to un-tie.

n- (ne not; L. ne): n-yllan (for newillan; L. n-olle for ne velle) to will not, nill; n-\u00e4n none.

mis- (E. mis-; G. miss-, misse-): mis-truwian (G. mis-trauen) to mis-trust; mis-déd (G. misse-that) mis-deed.

wan (4) (wana wanting): wan-hal unhealthy.

to-(5) (L. dis-; G. zer-): to-brecan (L. dis-rumpere, G. zer-brechen) to break in pieces; to-drifan (L. dispellere, G. zer treiben) to scatter, drive away.

⁽⁴⁾ Hence O. wan-hope (D. wan-hoop) despair; wan-trust (D. wan-trow) mis-trust.

⁽⁵⁾ Hence O. to-broken, to-torn &c. The prefix to- must be carefully distinguished from the preposition to.

for-(') (L. per-; F. for-; G. ver-): for-beódan (G. ver-bieten) to for-bid; for-swerian (L. per-jurare) to for-swear; for-gán to for-go; for-bærnan (G. ver-brennen) to burn up, consume; for-gifan (G. ver-geben) to give away, for-give.

wider- (wid against; G. wider-): wider-saca (G. wider-sacher) adversary.

and- (ἀντι; G. ant-): and-wlita (G. ant litz) countenance.

ge-(G. ge-; L. com-, con-, co-): has in general a collective sense; as, ge-bródra (G. ge-brüder) brethren; ge-scý (G. ge-schuhe, F. chaussure) shoes; ge-méne (G. ge-mein, L. com-mune) common; ge-fera (G. ge-fährte, L. com-es) companion; it forms active verbs from neuters, nouns, &c. as, ge-standan to urge; ge-pencan (G. ge-denken) to think of, remember; ge-strangian to strengthen; ge-leánian to reward; ge-niderian to degrade, condemn; from standan, pencan, strang, leán (reward), nider; or gives a figurative sense; as, biddan to ask, beg, ge-biddan to pray. Many words, however, take ge- without any change of meaning; as, seón, ge-seón to see; hýran, ge-hýran to hear, obey; mearc, ge-mearc mark, limit; rúm, ge-rúm wide, roomy.

be- (E. and G. be-) makes neuter verbs active; as, gán to go. be-gán to commit, &c. (G. gehen,be-gehen); feran to go, be-feran to travel over (G. fahren, be-fahren). It is sometimes privative; as, bycgan to buy, be-bycgan to sell; be-heáfdian to be-head: often intensive; as, reáfian to rob, be-reáfian to be-reave (G. rauben, be-rauben); be-gyrdan (G. be-gürten) to be-gird; or otherwise modifies the sense; as, be-healdan to be-hold, be-sprecan (G. be-sprechen) to be-speak.

ed- (again, re-): ed-niwian to re-new.

sin- (simle always, L. semper): sin-grén ever-green. sam- (L. semi-): sam-cuce(2) half-quick, half-dead.

æg- or ge- gives pronouns and adverbs an indeterminate sense; as, æg-hwylc (ge-hwylc) each, every, æg-hwider whithersoever.

II.—Nominal Terminations.

The following are the chief Nominal Terminations, denoting for the most part persons:

-a(3): cemp-a warrior, champion; hunt-a hunter; bog-a bow.

-ere: (E. and G. -er; L. -or): reaf-ere (G. räub-er) robb-er; sæd-ere (L. sat-or) sow-er.

-end (from the part. pres.): Hæl-end (G. Heil-and) Saviour, healer; weald-end ruler.

-e: hyrd-e herd, keeper; sig e victory; riht-wis-e righteousness.

-el, -ol, -l (E. -le; G. -el): byd-el (G. bed-el) herald, bead-le; gaf-ol tribute, gav-el; set-l (G. sess-el) seat, sett-le.

-ing: æđel-ing prince, young noble; Woden-ing son of Woden; earm-ing poor wretch.

⁽²⁾ Cuc, cucu, cucen, cwic (-e) are also found.

⁽³⁾ Answering sometimes to L. -o; as, g u m-a, L. hom-o man, groom; heace brýd-g u m a G. bräuti-gam, bride-groom.

-ling (E. -ling; G. -lein, -ling): cnæp-ling (G. knäb-lein) little boy; deór-ling (G. theuer-ling) darling.

-incle (L. -uncul-us, -a): ráp-incle little rope.

-en (E. -en; G. -chen): mægd-en maid-en, from mægð maid (G. magd, mäd-chen); cyc-en chick-en, from cocc cock.

-en (E. -en): þeód-en sovereign; byrð-en burth-en.

-en (E. -en; G. -in). Feminines from masculines sometimes change the vowel; as, pen, pin-en slave, female slave; fox, fyx-en (G. fuchs, füchs-in) fox, vix-en; sometimes not; as, peów, peów-en slave. Some change the vowel, and take -e; others change the vowel only; as, mearh, myr-e horse, mare; wulf, wylf (G. wolf, wölf-in) wolf, she-wolf.

-estre (E. and D. -ster): sang-estre (D. zang-ster) song-ster, from sangere singer; sæm-estre seam-ster, from sæm-ere seamer, tailor.(1)

The following denote a state, action, or the like:

-dóm (E. -dom; G. -thum): wis-dóm wis-dom; cyne-dóm(2) (G. könig-thum) king-ship.

-hád (E.-head, -hood; G.-heit): mæden-hád maiden-head; cild-hád (G. kind-heit) child-hood.

⁽¹⁾ In songstr-ess, seamstr-ess, a Latin-French termination has been superadded. Huck-ster, malt-ster, tap-ster, and the like, are the true feminines of hawk-er, malt-er, tapp-er, &c. Spin-ster is yet rightly used.

⁽²⁾ We have confounded -dom and -ric, but -dóm was properly the office, rank, -rice the territory: thus, cyne-dóm, cyne-ríce (G. könig-reich); bisceop-dóm, bisceop-ríce, and the like.

-scipe (E. -ship; G. -schaft): hláford-scipe lord-ship; freónd-scipe (G. freund-schaft) friend-ship.

-lác (E. -lock): wíf-lác, wed-lock.

-ad, -od: hunt-ad hunting; war-od sea-shore.

-uđ, -đ (E. th; G.-end): geóg-uđ (G. jug-end) youth; treów-đ troth, truth.

-leást (-lýst; from adj. in -leás): gýme-leást heedlessness.

-ung, -ing (E. -ing; G. -ung): hálg-ung (G. heiligung) hallow-ing; leorn-ing learn-ing.

-nes (-nys, -nis: E. -ness; G. -niss): car-leás-nes careless-ness; ge-líc-nes (G. gleich-niss) like-ness.

-u, -eo, -o (G. -e): hæt-u (G. hitz-e) heat; mænig-eo (G. meng-e) many, multitude; bræd-o (G. breit-e) breadth.

-els (E. -le; G. -el): réd-els (G. räths-el) ridd-le; sticc-els (G. stach-el) stick-le, sting.

-ed: rec-ed mansion; eow-ed flock.

-m (E. -om; G. -en): bot-m (G. bod-en) bott-om.

-ot, -et, -t: peow-ot, peow-t slavery; bærn-et burning.

-d, -t (E. -th, -d, -t; G. -t): ge-byr-d (G. ge-bur-t) bir-th; ge-cyn-d kin-d, nature; mih-t (G. mach-t) migh-t.

-ræden (ræd counsel): hiw-ræden house-hold; mægræden relationship.

III.—Adjectival Terminations.

-e: ædel-e noble; freg-e fated, fey.

-ig (E. -y, G. -ig): dreor-ig (G. traur-ig) drear-y: hys-ig bus-y.

-lic (E. -like, -ly, G. -lich): leof-lic (G. lieb-lich) love-ly; wif-lic (G. weib-lich) woman-like, woman-ly.

-isc (E. -ish, G. isch): cild-isc (G. kind-isch) child ish; Engl-isc (G. engl-isch) Engl-ish, Anglo-Saxon.

-sum (E. -some, G. -sam): lang-sum (G. lang-sam) tedious, long-some; wyn-sum (G. wonne-sam) amiable, win-some.

-ol (-ul) (L. -ul-us): sprec-ol talkative.

-en (E. and G. en): fleax-en (G. flachs-en) flax-en;

-bære (beran to bear: G. -bar): lust-bære (G. lust-bar) pleasant; wæstm-bære fruitful.

-cund (cynn kind, race): woruld-cund worldly.

-iht (G. -icht): porn-iht (G. dorn-icht) thorny.

-weard (adj. and adv.; E. -ward): tó-weard toward, to come; ham-weard home-ward.

-feald (E. -fold): án-feald single, one-fold; twi-feald, two-fold; manig-feald mani-fold.

-leás (E. -less, G. -los): syn-leás (G. sünde-los) sin-less; ár-leás (G. ehr-los) void of honour, impious.

-wis (wise): ge-wis (G. ge-wiss) certain; riht-wis righteous.

-ern (E. -ern): súð-ern south-ern.

-tyme: hefig-tyme troublesome.

IV .- Verbal Terminations.

-ian (-igan, -igean) forms verbs (I. 1.) from nouns, adjectives, and particles; as, cear-ian to care, gehýrsumian to obey, wider-ian to oppose; from cearu care, ge-býrsum obedient, wider against.

C, g, n, or s, sometimes stands before -ian; as, gearc-ian to prepare, syn-g-ian to sin, wit-n-ian to punish, mær-s-ian to magnify; from gearu ready, yare, syn sin, wite punishment, mære great, famous.

-án is contracted from -angan, -ágan, or -agan, and -ahan; as, gangan, gán to go; smeágan, smeán to consider, enquire; preagan, preán to vex; sleahan, sleán (G. schlagen) to strike, slay.

-ón is contracted from -angan, or -ógan; as, fangan, fón to take; teógan, teón to draw, tug.

-ettan: hál-ettan to hail, greet, from hál whole, hale.

After c and g, e is not seldom inserted; as, réc-ean, picg-ean, for réc-an to reach, picg-an to touch, taste, &c.

Other verbs in general form the infinitive in -an.

V.—Particles.

Adverbs, prepositions, and conjunctions, are either primitive words, that is, not to be further resolved in the language treated of, or are formed from nouns (often obsolete), adjectives, &c. governed by a preposition expressed or understood. Of the former kind are nú now, geó (iú), formerly, eft again, get (iet), yet, be by, &c. for for, tó to, ac but, gif if, &c. Of the latter kind, (to take the cases in order) are the accusatives on-weg (a-weg) a-way; on-bæc (under-, ofer-bæc) a-back, back; (on-)ge-mang a-mong; on-geau (a-gen) a-gain, a-gainst; ealne-weg al-way.

-e (abl. or dat.) forms many adverbs from nouns, adjectives,(1) &c.; as, on-riht-e (L. rect-e) (2) a-riht a-right, rightly; lang-e (L. long-e) long; mid-ealle altogether; be-da'le partly; to-sode in sooth, truly; of-dune, a-dun a-down, down; to-gædere (æt-gædere), to-somne (æt-somne, G. zu-sammen), to-gether.

lic-e (E. -ly; the same, borrowed from adjectives in -lic): sceort-lic-e short-ly, strang-lic-e strong-ly.

Other ablatives are the conjunctions for-pý therefore; (for-) hwý? (for) why?; datives for-pám because, to-pón-pæt in order that, síd-pán (G. seit-dem) since.

-um, -on (abl. or dat. plur.): (on) hwil-um, hwil on whileme, whiles, wundr-um wondrously, hwyrft-um by turns, sticce-mælum(3) piece-meal, be lytl-um and lytl-um by little and little, furd-um (-on) even, just, on-sundr-on in-sunder, a-sunder.

-es (genitive): niht-es(4) (νυκτ-ος, G. nacht-s) of a night, by night, will-es willingly, néd-es of necessity, needs, eall-es altogether, nall-es by no means, sód es of a truth, tó-gean-es against, tó-midd-es amidst.

-a. -unga, -inga (perhaps gen. plur.): gear-a of

- (1) Those in -h and -u take g and w, as, heáh, heáge; nearu, nearwe: see Adjectives Def., and Indef. I.
- (2) L. adverbs in -e were perhaps ablatives, like those in -o, as ver-u and the like.
- (3) Stic (II. 1) piece, bit, (steak) (G. stück); m &1 (II. 3) (G. mahl) meal, time of eating, milking cows, &c.
- (4) The proper genitives of niht, willa, and néd (neód) are nihte, willan, néde; at an early stage of the language, all nouns formed the gen. in -es or s; comp. the many Gr. and L. genitives in -og &c. and -is.

yore, son-a soon, forthwith, eals-unga altogether, holinga in vain, yrr-inga' angrily.

-an (an oblique case): níw-an of late, newly, for-an before, on midd-an, a-midd-an α-mid, wid-út-an without, búf-an(5) (for be-úf-an) α-bove; a-bút-an (for on-be-út-an) α-bout, &c.

Other adverbial terminations are :-

-der (motion to-): hi-der hi-ther, pi-der thi-ther, hwi-der whi-ther.

-on, -an (motion from—): heon-on hence, pan-on thence, hwan-on whence.

-r, -ra, -e, &c. (rest in—): her here, pær (para) there hwær (hwar) where; inn-e within, út-e without.

VI.—Composition.(6)

The A. S. language, like the Greek, German, &c. abounds in compound words, of which the last part commonly settles the part of speech. Nouns and adjectives are usually compounded together, and with verbs, without change, as in English, &c.; as, fic-treów fig-tree, heáfod-man (G. haupt-mann) head-man, captain, heáh-sacerd, high-priest, bisceop-rice bishop-ric, stæfcræft letter-craft, grammar, medo-ærn(1) mead-hall, peow-boren slave-born, stede-fæst stead-fast, bealofull baleful, snáw-hwít (G. schnee-weiss) snow-white, fren-heard (G. eisen-hart) as hard as iron, lif-fæstan

⁽⁵⁾ D. boven; "Oranje boven!" (6) See Rask, pp. 113-117.
(7) Or -ern; sealt-ern salt-ern.

to quicken, ful-fremman (G. voll-bringen) to ful-fil, and the like.

A noun, however, standing first, is often put in the genitive case, especially in local names; as, domesdæg doom's-day, hilde-byrne war-corslet; Engla-land England, land of the Angles; Cant-wara-burh Canterbury, burgh of the Kenters; Cinges-tún King's-town, Kingston; Beorminga-ham Birming-ham, home of the Beormings; Oxena-ford Ox-ford, ford of oxen; from dom, hild, Engle, Cant-ware, cing, Beorming, oxa. One or each part is sometimes shortened, &c.; as, frum-cenned first-born, æl-beorht all-bright, mild-heart mild-hearted; from frum a beginning, eall, milde, heorte. Prepositions and adverbs commonly stand before verbs, &c. without change, as in English, German, &c.; as, ymb-gang (G. um-gang) circuit; burh-faran (G. durch-fahren) to go through; widstandan (G. wider-stehen) to with-stand; to-cyme coming to (L. ad-ventus); fore-rynel fore-runner; foremihtig (L. præ-potens) very mighty; úp-riht (G. aufrecht) up-right; úp-stígan(1) (G. auf-steigen) to go up; nider-stigan (G. nieder-steigen) to go down; ford-gan (G. fort-gehen) to go forth; út-lág out-law (L. ex-lex); ofer-cuman to over-come; ofer-mod (G. über-muth) pride; under-niman (G. unter-nehmen) to under-take; fram-ge-witan to depart from; in-ledan (G. einleiten) to lead in; geond-geotan to pour through, suffuse; on-gean-cyrran to turn back again; of-sceotan

(G. ab-schiessen) to shoot off; æfter-fyligend successor, one who follows after; mid-sídian to travel with; sundor-spræc conversationapart; samod-(sam-)-wyrc-an to work together, co-operate.

The preposition be, bi, usually becomes big in composition; as, big-spel (G. bei-spiel) example, parable; big-standan (G. bei-stehen) to stand by; it may thus be known from the particle be, which sometimes becomes bi; as, be-standan, bi-standan (G. be-stehen) to stand on, occupy.(2) On often becomes an- or a-; as, on-bídan, an-bídan, a-bídan to a-bide. Æt and od in composition often mean from, away; as, æt-berstan to burst away, od-yrnan to run away, escape, like G. ent-bersten, -rinnen.

Particles are also freely compounded together.

Prepositions, and other particles in composition, are often parted from their verb, as in German; but the same rules can hardly be given in A. S.

In general, purh, úp, niđer, tó, forđ, út, in, on, bi (big) are separable; a-, an-, be-, ge-, ed-, un-, or-, mis-, ođ, and-, wiđ, sam-, for-, to-, are inseparable; æt, of, &c. are rarely separated.

CHAPTER VII.

I.—Syntax.

THE A S. Syntax in general resembles that of Greek and German; but it bears the closest likeness, with some remarkable points of difference from that and other tongues, to the Latin, with which it should be compared throughout. The concords agreeing in A. S. with those in Latin, &c. need not be repeated. With regard to the construction of sentences it may be observed, that the verb often stands after both the subject and the object, coming last of all, as for the most part in German; as,

⁽²⁾ See Formation of Particles.

On pre tide pa Gotan wid Rómana-rice gewinu úp-a-hófon, at that time the Goths raised up war against the Roman empire.

pa Darius ge-seáh þæt he ofer-wunnen beón wolde, þá wolde he hine sylfne on þám ge-feohte for-spillan, when Darius saw that he should be over-come, then he would lose his life in the fight.

We sceolon mid biternysse sódre be-hreowsunge ure mód ge-clænsian, we must with the bitterness of true repentance cleanse our mind.

Often, however, sentences are in this and other respects framed as in English; and on the whole this part of the grammar will not prove difficult to the student, and may be better learned from reading than from any rules that might be given.

II .- Syntax of Nouns.

Nouns of time answering to the question, "how long?" are put in the accusative or ablative; as,

Ealle wucan all the week.

þrý dagas, or þrym dagum three days.

Answering to the question "when?" they stand in the ablative, dative with on, or genitive; as,

þý feorðan dógore on the fourth day.

On hissum geare in this year.

Ussa tída(1) in our times.

Measure, value, age, and the like, are used in the genitive; as,

Twegra elna heáh two ells high.

Ynces lang an inch long.

preora mila brád three miles broad.

Sex peninga wyrde worth six pence.

A'nes geares lamb a lamb of one year.

The matter to which a measure, &c. is applied, stands in the genitive; as,

Hund mittena hwætes a hundred measures of wheat.

Hund-teentig punda goldes a hundred pounds of gold.

It sometimes remains unchanged; as,

Twegen marc gold(2) two marks of gold.

Quality, praise, or blame, stands in the genitive; as,

A'r-wyrdre yldo of venerable age.

Fægeres and-wlitan of fair countenance.

Ge-togene þý wæpne(3) the weapon (being) drawn.

A-fundenum sceape the sheep (being) found.

Two datives, the latter governed by to, are used like the L. double dative; as, pæt he ús tó fultume sý(4) that he may be (for) a help to us.

- (') Comp. F. de nos temps.
- (3) L. stricto telo; ove repertà.
- (2) G. zwei mark gold.
- (4) L. ut nobis auxilio sit.

The means or instrument stands in the ablative or dative, with or without the preposition mid; as,

Hine mid þý heofon-lícan weg-nyste ge-trymmende strengthening himself with that heavenly viaticum.

þý betstan leóðe ge-glenged adorned with the best lay.

Heó hí sylfe mid cyne-lícum reáfe ge-frætwode she adorned herself with royal attire.

Hig sprecad niwum tungum they shall speak with new tongues.

III.—Syntax of Adjectives.

Adjectives in general, especially those denoting want, desire, knowledge, remembrance, and the like, have a genitive case of the noun which defines them, and often stand after it; as,

Fees wana wanting money.

Freónda leás lacking friends.

Hrægles pearfa devoid of raiment.

Earn ætes georn an eagle eager for food.

Ac ic heora eom swide gifre but I am very greedy of them.

Bóca gleáw skilful in books.

Un-wis God-cundan Naman ignorant of the Divine Name.

Hí néron his ge-myndige they were not mindful of him.

Módes blíde blithe of mood.

Sídes wérig weary of travel.

Mægenes strang strong of might.

I'sig federa icy of wings.

They sometimes take an ablative; as,

Wintrum geong young in years.

Blind bám eágum blind of both eyes.

Adjectives denoting pleasure, profit, injury, and the like, govern a dative; as, pean he him leof wære though he were dear to them.

Eallum and-feng acceptable to all.

pæt he mynster-lícum cumum ge-pensum wére that he might be serviceable to the monastic guests.

Rinca ge-hwylcum un-nyt useless to every man.

Derigend-lic býđ þe it will be hurtful to thee.

Full full, wyrde worthy, scyldig guilty, have an ablative, dative, or genitive; as,

Full Halgum Gaste full of the Holy Ghost.

Full deádra bána full of dead bones.

Se wyrhta is wyrde his metes the workman is worthy of his meat.

Se býd dóme scyldig he shall be guilty of the judgment.

He is deádes scyldig he is guilty of death.

Ge-lic like, has a dative or genitive; as,

Hig synd ge-lice pam cildum(1) they are like the children.

Nán man nis his ge-líca no man is like him.

The word which determines a comparative stands before it in the ablative neuter; as, prym mundum hýrra three hands higher.

(1) Thus L. similes pueris; ejus similis.

Micle má much more.

þý weorðra so much the worthier.

Comparatives require either ponne or pe than, with a nominative, or an ablative or genitive without; as,

Ge synd sélran ponne manega spearwan, or ge synd beteran manigum spearwum ye are better than many sparrows.

O'der-healf gear læs be prittig wintra a year and a half less than thirty years.

Se is his mára he is greater than him.

Superlatives take a genitive; as,

Ealra wyrta mæst greatest of all herbs.

 For the Syntax of Pronouns see Chapter IV.

IV .- Syntax of Verbs.

Verbs, as in other tongues, agree in number with their subject; after ælc þára (þæra) þe each of them that, every one that, however, the singular is used, agreeing with ælc and not with þára; as,

Ælc pára pe tó me cymđ (lit. each of them that cometh—) every one that cometh to me.

Swá ge-býrað ælcum þára þe winð so it befitteth every one that contendeth.

With a noun of multitude the verb may be either singular or plural; as, pá com micel mænigeo and tó him éfston then came a great multitude and hastened to him.

Transitive verbs in general, as in other tongues, govern the direct object in the accusative case; as,

Lufa pinne nextan love thy neighbour.

Seó sé ge-tácnað þás and-weardan woruld the sea betokeneth this present world.

A'xian to ask, takes a double accusative; as,

Nán ne dorste hine nán þing máre áxian no one durst ask him anything more.

Verbs of naming have an accusative of the object named, and a nominative of the name; as, pone un-ge-met lice eargan pú miht hatan hara the immoderately timid thou mayest call hare.

Rédan to rule, a bregdan to draw (a weapon), and to-bregdan to cast off (sleep,) govern the ablative; as, penden hí þý ríce rædan móston while they might rule the realm.

A'n of pam pý sweorde a-bræd one of them drew his sword.

Mid-pý heó þá þý slæpe to-bræd when she then had cast off sleep.

Verbs of bidding, forbidding, serving, following, obeying, consenting to, opposing, pleasing, trusting, injuring, profiting, escaping from; likewise for-swerian to forswear, cidan to chide, árian to honour, spare, beorgan to save, defend, déman to judge, oleccan to flatter, *stillan(1) to still, fylstan to succour, efen-lécan to imitate, ge-nea-lécan to approach, and heorenian to hearken to, govern the dative; as,

Un-clanum gastum be-být he commandeth the unclean spirits.

Ne for-beóde ge him forbid him not.

⁽¹⁾ The verbs marked thus * sometimes govern the accusative.

Ne mæg nán man twám hláf-ordum peowian no man can serve two lords.

Heó him benode she served him.

pa sceap him fyligead the sheep follow him.

pá se wer hýrde his waldende then the man obeyed his ruler.

A preposition sometimes stands after its case; as,

Hí him mid sæton they sate with him.

Him bi twegen beámas stódon by him stood two trees.

It is sometimes parted from it altogether, and placed either next before the verb, or last of all; as,

pe he man-cyn mid a-lýsde with which he redeemed mankind

pá ge-nea-læhte him án man tó then drew nigh to him a man.

Ymb-útan is sometimes divided; as,

Ymb han-cred útan about cock-crow.

Wid and we ard are sometimes used, the one before, the other after an accusative or genitive; as,

Wid heofonas weard(2) toward the heavens.

Wid Petres weard toward Peter.

VI.—Syntax of Conjunctions.

The following conjunctions require the verb to be in the indicative mode:

and (3) and.

eác eke, also.

Hú Boetius hine singende ge-bæd how Boëtius singing prayed.

Bútan for but has an indicative, for unless a subjunctive; as,

Bútan ic wát but I know.

Bútan we gán unless we go.

Hú ne with an indicative, and hwæder with a subjunctive, are used to make prepositions interrogative; as,

Hú ne dód mán-fulle swá? do not the wicked so?

Hwæder ge nú sécan gold on treowum do ye now seek gold on trees?

Cwyst bú, or segst bú? sayest thou? cwede ge say ye? &c. serve the same purpose with an indicative; as,

Segst þú mæg se blinda þone blindan lædan? may the blind lead the blind?

Cwede ge hæbbe ge sufol? have ye meat?

Uton (-an) with an infinitive, expresses a wish or intention; as,

Uton gan let us go.

The negative ne not stands (like L. non, ne, F. ne) before the verb; as,

Ne for-læt he eów he will not forsake you.

Two(') or more negatives are often used, ne being usually prefixed to each word capable of taking it; as,

Ne wép bú ná weep not.

pá næs nán cræft þæt ic ne cúde then there was no art that I knew not.

Se-pe nis náder ne geboren ne ge-sceapen fram nánum ódrum who is neither born nor created by any other.

Bútan but, only takes ne before it; as,

We nabbad búton(2) fíf hláfas we have but five loaves.

VII.—Syntax of Interjections.

Wá wo takes a dative; as,

Wá þám men!(3) wo to the man! where sý (beó) be, or býð shall be is understood.

- (') The doctrine, therefore, that "two negatives make an affirmative," is as foreign to the true spirit of the English as it would be to that of the Greek language.
 - (2) Comp. F. nous n'avons que.
 - (3) L. væ homini! G. weh dem manne!

Wá is me(4)! wo is me!

On the other interjections, of which the following are he chief, nothing need be added:

lá! O, oh, lo!
ea-lá! oh, halloo, alas!
efne! behold!
wá-lá-wá (wei-lá-wei) well-a-way!
hwæt! lo! indeed!
Leóf(5) is used as an expletive; as,
Gea(6), leóf, ic hæbbe yea marry have I.

⁽⁴⁾ Οὐαι μοι ἐστι.

⁽⁵⁾ Analogous to our P. and familiar use of the word dear

⁽⁸⁾ G. and D. ja.

CHAPTER IX.

VERSE EXTRACTS.

I.—Narrative Verse.

Anglo-Saxon Poetry is of various kinds, distinguished by rime, by alliteration, or by both; the commonest however only, termed Narrative Verse, will be here described. Its chief characteristic is Alliteration (1), or the correspondence of the first letters of a certain number of the most important words in each line of a couplet, two called sub-letters riming thus together in the first line, and answering to a third called the chief letter in the second. The first line has often but one sub-letter and never more than two; the second never more than one chief letter. The length of the lines varies much, each however must contain at least two emphatic or root syllables, with one or more unemphatic, that is prefixes, terminations, &c.: few lines have less than four syllables, two emphatic, and two unemphatic, and some have as many as eight or nine, or even more. For example (1):

Hú lomp(²) eów on láde(³)
leófa Beó-wulf,
þá þú færinga
feor ge-hogodest
sæcce(⁴) sécean
ofer sealt wæter,
hilde(⁵) tó Heorote(⁶)?
Ac þú Hróð-gáre
wið cúðne wean(७)
wihte ge-béttest(˚8), mærum þeódne(⁶)?

How befell it you on your voyage dear Beówulf, when thou suddenly far off determinedst warfare to seek over the salt water, battle at Heorot? Hast thou then Hróthgár against his known plague ought booted, the famous prince?

Here the first couplet has in the first line two subletters, the l in lomp and láde, answering to the chief letter, the l in leófa in the second. The third line has but one sub-letter, the f in færinga which rimes with

- (1) Beówulf, ed. Kemble l. 3969-79.
- (2) Limpan (III. 1.) to happen.
- (3) Ladu (III. 3.) líðan to travel, journey, chiefly by sea.
- (4) Sæc (II. 3.) hence sack of a town.
- (5) Hild (II. 3.) battle, war.
- (6) The palace of Hróthgár prince of a Danish tribe.
- (7) Wea evil, misfortune.
- (8) Bétan to profit, improve, do good to; bót (II. 3.) boot, profit.
- (9) Though quantity and number of syllables seem no essential part of A. S. versification, many lines will bear a more or less regular scanning; thus most short lines consist either of two trochees, like the 2nd, 5th, and 31th above, or of a dactyl and spondee like the 10th: the 3rd, and 6th, also might be called imperfect adonics.

that in feor in the fourth. The third and fourth couplets have each two sub-letters like the first; the fourth again but one, wid being here not emphatic. The last line depends for its alliteration on the first of the next period; the couplet joining two lines by alliteration only, is often thus broken by the sense.

When the chief letter is a vowel or diphthong, the sub-letters must likewise be vowels or diphthongs, but need not be the same; as,

U'tan ymbe æðelne englas stódon.
Eorðan æ'ht-ge-streón,
æpplede gold.

Without round the noble angels stood.
Earth's possessions, appled (1) gold.

In the first example the sub letters \hat{u} and \hat{e} in the first line answer to the chief letter e in the second; in the other eo, e', and e rime together.

When the chief letter is double, the sub letters are usually double likewise; as, Frægn from-lice (°) framan and ende. Sceán scír (³) werod, scyldas lixton. He asked prudently the beginning and end. Shone the bright host, shields gleamed.

The following prefixes and prepositions in composition are not reckoned as part of the alliteration, which  Cædmon, the Anglo-Saxon Milton, author of the Metrical Paraphrase of parts of the Holy Scriptures, from which the following extracts are taken, was first a herdsman, afterwards a monk in the Abbey of Streoneshalh or Whitby, then ruled by S. Hild: he flourished in the 7th century. For an account of him from Ælfred's version of Beda's Ecclesiastical History, see Mr. Thorpe's preface to his edition of Cædmon, and his Analecta Anglo-Saxonica, pp. 54-8.

the winsome wood, might damage.

⁽¹⁾ Ceól (II. 2.) keel, vessel (= L. carina) G. kiel: vessels called keels are still in use on the Humber.

⁽²⁾ Lyft (II. 3.) G. luft, O. lift; swencan to drive, urge.

⁽³⁾ Hýð (II. 3.) haven, &c.; hence -hythe in Queen-hythe, &c.

⁽⁴⁾ Fæðm II. 2.

⁽⁵⁾ Oncer, ancer (II. 2.) G. anker.

⁽⁶⁾ For-wrecan (II. 1.) to banish, injure, &c. hence to wreck.

APPENDIX.

1.—Words spelt alike, but differing in accent, pronunciation, and meaning.

 This list, in addition to what is stated at p. 2, will prove the great importance of attention to the quantity of A. S. vowels, if only as a mean of distinguishing words otherwise of the same aspect, but in truth differing in every respect but spelling. Other spellings, by which some of the words may be further known from each other, are given between brackets.

Ac (ah) but.

ác (II. 3.) oak; G. eiche, D. eik.

a-gán a-gone, a-go.

ágan (anom.) to own, possess, have.

a-gen(1) (a-(on-)gean) a-gain, a-gainst; G. gegen, D. te-gen.

ágen own; G. and D. eigen.

an (on) on, in; ¿v, L. ĭn, G. an, D. aan (²).

an (ann) (I) grant, from unnan.

⁽²⁾ The Dutch sometimes, as here, has lengthened a short vowel; on the whole however it will perhaps be found as safe a guide to the A. S. quantity as any modern language can be. In D. a double vowel or diphthong, in G. a diphthong, a vowel with h before or after it, or a double vowel, in general answers to an A. S. long vowel.

án one, a; G. ein, D. een: L. ūn-us, $\epsilon i\varsigma(1)$.

ar (II. 2.) messenger.

ár (II. 3.) honour; G. ehre, D. eer.

aras; plur. of ar.

a-rás a-rose, from a-rísan.

ædre instantly, forthwith.

treówe (trýwe) true, truth; see II. above.

wacan (II. 3.) (wacian) to wake, watch (neut.); G. wachen, D. waaken.

weccan (I. 2.) to wake (act.); G. wecken, D. wekken.

weder (II. 1.) weather; G. wetter, D. weder.

weder (II. 2.) wether; G. widder.

wic (II. 1.) dwelling; οἰκ-ος: see p. 103, n. 12.

wicg (II. 1.) horse.

wig (II. 2.) war.

windan (III. 1.) to wind, turn (neut.); G. and D. winden.

wendan (I. 3.) to turn (act.), wend, go; G. and D. wenden.

wise (I. 3.) wise, manner; G. weise, D. wijze. wisa wise man, guide; G. weiser, D. wijzer. witan (anom.) to know &c.: see I. above. ge-witan to depart. witian to decide.

wite (III. 1.) punishment; O. wite. wita counsellor; hence witen ge-mot parliament. wræð wrath, anger.

wrad wroth, angry.

pincan (1. 3.) to seem; G. dünken, D. dunken.
pencan (I. 3.) to think, make seem to one-self; G. and
D. denken. (1)

⁽¹⁾ Comp. δοκεω I think, seem, δοκει μοι me-thinks.

IV.—Additional Notes.

Page 1.—Æ is not a diphthong, but a modification of a in the other dialects, for which it is substituted in certain cases, as before a mute, or a consonant followed by e; thus dæg, dæge, but plur. dagas, dagum; so also fæt, sæd, &c.: æanswering to Goth. é, is not changed.

The A. S. wrote 1 without a dot, y with one.

p probably gave rise to the O. abbreviations ye for the (|p|e), yt for that (|p|t), &c.

Page 2.— * was also written for o & & | or, só & * for só & -lice truly, verily. Examples of the use of n are $\partial a$ for $\partial a$ in to the &c., $\partial a$ for $\partial a$ in to the &c., $\partial a$ on for $\partial a$ not then, when.

In later times 3 occurs for g, originally most likely a guttural, afterwards = y: hence the O. z still retained in some S. names, as Dalzell, Menzies, pronounced Dalyell, Menzies.

A long vowel is sometimes written double without the accent; as, wiid, good, gees, for wid, god, ges, like D. wijd &c.; in G. also the vowel is sometimes doubled in like manner. Where A.S. vowels are made long by contraction the dropt consonant sometimes appears, sometimes not in the modern Teutonic dialects; as, (sleahan) slean, G. schlagen, D. slaan; gangan, gan, G. gehen, D. gaan; hangan, hón, G. and D. hangen. N has been often dropt and the vowel lengthened before other consonants, above all before s, (Note 1.) while it remains in kindred tongues; as, ést (love, favour), Goth. ansts; gós, G. gans, L. ans-er; ós (god, hero)Goth.ans; sóft, G. sanft; fús (prompt), Goth. funs; ús, Goth. and G. uns, L. nos, &c. This seems the case in Greek too, where ns is in like manner avoided; as, δους. δοῦσα (L. dans), στας, στᾶσα (L. stans), Σιμοεις, and many other words, in some of which the circumfley, as elsewhere, marks the contraction; the ν appears as soon as the σ is removed: neut. $\delta o \nu$, $\sigma \tau a \nu$; gen. δοντος, σταντος, Σιμοεντος &c. In A. S. í, ý, ó, and ú before &, often answer to a cognate short vowel followed by nd, nt, or nth, in the other languages; as, lide, (lithe, soft) G. linde; sid (time) Goth. sinths, Dan. sinde; swid, Goth. swinths; hryder, G. rind. D. rund; yd, L. unda; óder, Goth. anthars, G. ander; teóde (tenth), G. zehnte; cúd, G. kund; gúd (war), Goth. gunths, O. G. kund.

In the imperfects stod, brothe, butte, bothe, n is likewise dropt, and the vowel made long, g or c in the three last becoming h, as often else; cunnan and unnan also make cube, ube instead of cunde (G. konnte), unde: bothe bought should most likely be short, not being so contracted. Something like these changes now and then appears in L.; as, fundo, fudi, fusus; tundo, tusus, where the vowel in the present is long for prosodical purposes only. On the whole, though the Gr. and L. quantity sometimes agrees with the A.S., and the D. and G. very often, the Gothic is the only sure guide, or failing that, the Icelandic, or other old kindred dialects.

Page 4.—Sometimes too g is added before e, as geów for eów, with little or no change of sound (see p. 41); with a soft vowel before or after it, g seems to have been but lightly sounded, as y, or as a fine guttural.

Page 5.—Other changes are io for eo, and ió for eó; seo fon, sio fon, heó, hió n for o, and ú for ó, especially after ge, which sometimes becomes i; geong, (giung) iung; geó, (giú) iú, ió; Iótas, Iútas Jutes: ie for y, gyld, gield payment, tax &c. Uoccurs medievally for v in foreign names, as Dauid David; hence also for f, as lunian for lufian to love. Some of these spellings and those p. 5. are the variations of different times, some of different dialects, of which as yet but little is known with certainty.

Page 8.—A. S. d has sometimes become E. th (soft), often G. t; fæder father, G. vater. p and & usually answer to G. and D. d; preo, G. drei, D. drie; bró & er, G. bruder, D. broeder, & sometimes to G. and D. t; for &, G. fort, D. voort. See also p. 2 and addition thereto. The loss of these letters in E. and the substitution of the one unmeaning combination th for both the hard and soft sound is much to be regretted. The A. S. had seemingly no rule but custom for the use of these two letters and sounds, as we for the latter, respectively, but as b is found oftenest at the beginning, and & at the end of a syllable, they are here so printed throughout.

Page 8-9.—The following are likewise exceptions to the general rule that the A.S. gender agrees with the German:

Neut.	elif	G. klippe (f.)	cliff, rock.
	líc	G. leiche (f.)	corpse.
-	sæd ·	G. saat (f.)	seed.
-	sceorp	G. schärpe (f.)	scarf.
-	big-spel	G. bei-spiel (m.)	example.
	toll	G. zoll (m.)	toll.
Masc.	næs	G. nase (f.)	nose, ness.
milaton.	sál	G. seil (n.)	cord.
Manus	tear	G. zähre (f.)	tear.
	an-(ge-)weald	G. ge-walt (f.)	power,
Fem.	blæd	G. blatt (n.)	fruit, leaf.
-	nyt	G. nutz (m.)	use.

L. has clivus masc. and clivum neut.; nasus is masc.

Page 9.—Swefen dream is fem. II. 3., and neut. III. 1.

Scleó shoe (G. schuh masc.) is masc. II. 2. (plur. sceós), or fem. I. 3. (plur. sceón O. shoon), or III. 3. (plur. (ge-)scý.)

Page 10—But few certain rules can be given for the genders, especially from the terminations, of which several, as -e, -u, -el, -en, -er, contain nouns of all three. To some of the rules given above the following are exceptions and there may be more: setl seat, and wered host are masc.; -oð and -uð are interchangeable, and when from an adjective, fem.; as, geógoð(·uð) youth, from geong: -ð after a consonant is fem. chiefly when from an adjective, as, strengð from strang; otherwise sometimes neut. as, morð murder, or masc, as monð (monað) month.

Compounds in -lác are neut., in -ræden feminine.

Nouns of the 1st declension are called Simple from the simplicity of their inflection, having but four endings for the eight cases of the two numbers, and also from the close likeness of the three genders; the 2nd and 3rd declensions are termed Complex, as having in general more case-endings, and wider distinctions of gender. The former kind answer to the Gr. nouns making their dative plural in -oi, and the L. in -bus. the latter to the Gr. which form it in -oig or -aig, and the L. in -is. The terms Weak and Strong for Simple and Complex have greater seeming propriety when applied to other Gothic tongues, Gr. and L. for instance, than to A. S., since in the former case they in general need the help of another syllable to form their inflection, while A. S. needs only -n, and in the latter they have oftener the power of forming their cases without an additional syllable, than the A. S. has. Gr. and L. synonyms sometimes correspond with the A. S. in declension as well as in meaning and etymon; thus, simple: οὐς, aur-is, eár-e; δ-νομ-α, nom-en, nam-a; hom-o, gum-a; complex: ἐργ-ον, weorc; πυργ-ος, burh; via, weg; vir, wer. Some nouns have both forms without a change of meaning; as, heofon, heofone heaven, mann, manna man, beów, beówa slave; some with; as, múð month (animate), múða mouth (inanimate), see List III. above; lufu and lufe are sometimes used indifferently, but usually the former stands for love, affection (amor), the latter for love, sake (gratia): Godes lufu love of God; for sumes godes lufan for the sake of some good.

Page 11.—The neuter is placed first in the declension of nouns, adjectives, and pronouns, as the simplest and purest form of the word, the masculine next as agreeing with it usually in three or four cases out of the five, and the feminine last as generally unlike both. The accusative stands next after the nominative as agreeing with it always in the neut., and sometimes in the masc., while in the fem. it is derived from it; the ablative next as in some words derived from the accus.; and the genitive after the dative as sometimes derived from it, and last of all, as being in neuters and masculines in general most changed from the nominative. This applies more or less to Gr., L., G. &c.: in A. S. it is more apparent in complex than in simple nouns, more still in the indefinite inflection of adjectives, and most of all in demonstrative pronouns. As regards the genders, twá, bá, and þreo are noticeable exceptions.

Page 13.—The plural ending -an (G. -en) became in time -en which in ox-en (ox-an) is yet rightly used; hos-en (hós-a), and P. hous-en (hús), and furz-en (fyrs-as) are wrong. To brethr-en (bróðr-u), and childr-en (cildr-u) too it has been wrongly added; O. was child-er still in P. use: see p. 18, n. 3. Chich-en (G. küch-en) whence chick is shortened, is no more a plural than maid-en or vix-en; see p. 66.

Proper names in -a whether A. S. or foreign are thus declined; as Gota Goth, Beda, Anna: Europa follows the L. making accus. Europam; dat. and gen. Europe (the medieval form of Europæ): Donua Danube (G. Donau; well called by Milton Donaw), and sometimes Sicilia and the like are not declined. There are no A. S. fem. names in -a; all nouns in -a being masc., those now so written end either in a consonant or in -u, (II. 3. or III. 3.); as, Mæð-hild, Eád-gifu, since latinised to Mathilda, Edgiva. Other foreign names sometimes take the L. cases except the vocative; as, He ge-seáh Simonem he saw Simon. Fram Decapolis from Decapolis. Iacobus Zebedei James (son) of Zebedee. Lazarus gáút! Lazarus come forth! Masculines ending in a consonant often follow II. 2., as, Salomon, Salomones, Salomone; Petrus, Petre, and the like.

The now anomalous genitives in -ens of some G. simple nouns, as herz-ens, nam-ens, will-ens, lieb-ens(-würdig), are derived from the Goth. gen., hairt-ins, nam-ins (L. nom-inis) wilj-ins &c. A. S. heortan, nam-an, will-an, luf-an. Glaub-ens is the only gen. of this kind which had a nom. in -en, glauben, (complex) Goth. ga-láubeins, A. S. (simple) ge-leáfa. Herz-e (Goth. hairto, A. S. heorte) is still in P. and poetical use: other G. simple nouns, as her (A S. hearra) have lost the final vowel. Feminines have in general lost the oblique -n in the singular, except in some phrases, as auf erden (on earth), vor freuden (for joy) &c. Many feminines and a few masculines properly complex now form the plural in -n, and in general the two orders have come to be much mixed.

Page 15.—Nouns in -e (II. 2.) sometimes keep the e in the plural; as, end-eas, end-eum &c.

Freónd and feónd being originally participials, derived, the former from freógan (G. freien) to court, honour, the latter from a lost verb akin to fáh hostile (whence foe), properly made the nom. and accus. sing. and plur. alike, but in time came to be inflected as II. 2.

It is only in monosyllables before one consonant that a is changed to a; otherwise not; as, wæstm, pl. wæstmas (fruit) æcer, pl. æceras, æcras: thus too in adjectives; smæl, þæt smale, smalor, but fæst, þæt fæste, fæstor and the like.

Feld and ford originally belonged to III. 2; feld-u, ford-u like sun-u

Page 17.—Hand belongs to a lost class of complex feminines in -u hand-u.

Page 20.—Wædla poor hitherto called an adjective having the definite inflection only, seems rather a noun (1.2.) a beggar; wædlian to beg: pearfa poor is commonly if not always used as a noun—a poor man wan a wanting seems indeclinable.

Page 24.—The comparative and superlative endings -or, -ost (-oste), and -er, -est (-este) are sometimes used indifferently, but it would seem that the former oftener follow a, o, and u, the latter e, i, or y. see addit. note on p. 42

Page 25.—Several of these adjectives form adverbs regularly in -e and -lice (p. 70.) as lang-e, lang-lice, strang-e, strang-lice, hræd-lice, heág-e, heá-lice, eáð-e, eáðe-lice, sceort-lice, sóft-e, yfel-e, lytl-e.

Page 26.—Lesser for less is as wrong as least-est for least would be or as wors-er for worse is. Lest is $(\not y \not y -) l \otimes s(-\not p e)$, t being added as in agains-t &c. The ending -mest has no connexion with mést most, though it also has become -most: our upper-most, after-most &c. have arisen from the wrong notion that most was added to the comparative.

Page 27.—Ye is therefore the true nom., you the accus. &c. "If any man say ought to you, ye shall say."

Page 29.—Mine and thine are therefore the older forms, from which my and thy are shortened; the former were long retained before yowels.

Page 30.—pissere and pissera are older forms than pisse and pissa.

Page 32.—The á- in á-wiht &c. must not be confounded with the common prefix a- for on-, an- (p. 73); á is ever, aye, ἀει, Goth. áiw-, G. je, whence αἰων, Goth. áiws, L. ævum, aye, eternity. A'- or æg- (p. 65) gives a general sense like G. je, in je-mand some one; á-h wær some-, any-, every-where, á-h wæn ne some time, any time, P. some-when, any-when: with the negative it becomes ná never, no; ná-b wider no-whither: ná-wiht is more regular than nán-wiht. A'wèer and áèer (if true readings) are contractions of á-h wæèer, and = ægèer, æg-h wæèer: náwèer is ná-h wæèer = L. ne-uter; hence rightly comes O. and P. nother neither has arisen from either.

Page 33.—Our one and a are both descended from an; in an before a vowel the n has been restored; most languages use the same word in both senses; in A. S. s u m is commoner for the article than an.

Page 37.-Verbs of the first conjugation are called Simple from the simplicity of their inflection, and its likeness in the three classes, or Weak as needing the help of another syllable to form their imperfect; those of the second and third are termed Complex from the various changes of vowel &c. they undergo, and the greater diversity of their classes, or Strong, as having in themselves the power of forming their imperfect. The analogy of the A. S. simple with the Gr. contracted verbs, and the L. 1st, 2nd, and 4th conjugations, and of the A. S. complex with the Gr. regulars, and L. 3rd conj. is worthy of attention. Some of the Gr. and L. synonyms agree in conjugation, as well as in meaning and etymology with the A. S.; as, simple: ceall-ian, καλ-εειν, cal-are to call; tem-ian, δαμ-αειν, dom-are to tame; lix-an, L. luc-ere to shine: complex; graf-an, γραφ-ειν; to (en-) grave, write; brec-an, ρηγ-ειν, frang-ere, to break; ter-an, τειρ-ειν, ter-ere to tear &c.; flow-an, flu-ere to flow; drag-an, trah-ere to draw, drag. Simple verbs are now in E. and G. usually called regular, complex irregular; in both many complex verbs have in course of time become simple, and this change is still going on. Thus bake, sleep, leap, sweep, weep, fare, wield, fold, step, starve, creep, reek, lye wreak, dive, shove, row, flow, swallow, brook &c. from A. S. complex forms have become simple: others are in a fair way to do so, retaining only a complex imperf. or part. past, some of which are either gone or going out of use; as, hung, hove, stood, shove, clomb, glode, bet, shod; waxen, hewn, laden, graven, shapen, washen, strewn, holpen, bursten, foughten, swollen &c.

G. walten (to rule), wallen (to boil), sähen (to sow), krähen (to crow), kauen (to chew), wachen (to watch), wathen (to wade), reuen (to rue), lachen (to laugh), as also most of the E. synonyms, have become simple; others, as backen (to bake), hauen (to hew), sieden (to seethe) &c. are in the transition state. A few E. verbs from A. S. I. 2., and I. 3. have assumed imperfects (but not participles past) of a seeming complex form; as, meet, met; lead, led; send, sent; build, built; from métan, ládan, sendan, byldan. A very few A. S. verbs have both forms without change of meaning; as, bringan; bringe, brohte, broht, or bringe, brang, brungen; the latter however is rare.

Page 38.—Attention should be paid to the quantity of the complex or strong imperfects, both as compared with that of the present, and as to whether it is long throughout, or short throughout, or short in the first and third persons singular, and long in the 2nd, and the whole plural, or long in the first and third pers., and short in the rest. Thus II. 2, from presents some short, some long, and II. 3, from presents all short, make it long throughout, except some doubtful in the former: as, healde; heóld, heólde &c. drage; dróh &c. III. 1. has the present short, and the imperf. short throughout with a change of vowel; binde; band, bunde, band, bundon. II. 1. short in the pres. has the imperf. short and long; brece; bræc. bræce, bræc, bræcon; except the f win ea; as, geaf, geafe &c., together with com, come &c., and nam, name &c. which are short throughout. III. 2. and III. 3. with long pres. have the imperf. long and short with a change of vowel; drife; draf, drife, dráf, drifon; clufe; cleáf, clufe, cleáf, clufon. Complex participles past are all short but some of 11. 2.

like I. 2.; as, fyligan to follow, imperf.fyligde, imper. fylig, but part. past fyligd: see p. 42.

Page 42.—There seem to have been originally two distinct classes of verbs in -ian, both now included in I. 1., the one forming its imperf. and part. past in -óde, -ód, the other in -cde, -ed; the former answering closely to the Gr. contracted verbs, and the L. in -āvi, -ātus, ēvi, ēt-us, and -īvi, īt-us, the latter to the L. in -ui, īt-us &c. In time -óde, ód were shortened, and then came to be confounded with -ede, -ed, many verbs being found with both forms; -ode, -od however seems to occur oftenest when the root-vowel is a, o, or u, -ede, ed when it is e, i, or y; see addit. note on p. 25: -ade, -ad is a modification of -ode, -od. The -de, -ed (-d) of I. 2. 3. is contracted from -ede, -ed, I. 1.; when the d is thus brought next a hard consonant it becomes t.

The characteristic c is not changed if 1, n, or s stand before it; as, elce (delay) imperf. elcte; drence (drench) drencte; wisce (wish) wiscte; unless the n be dropt, as in bince, búhte, and the like: it else commonly (in simple verbs) becomes h, as in táce, p. 42, &c.

Page 43—The original form of the 2nd and 3rd persons sing. of I. 2, 3, II. and III. was hýrest, hýreð, tellest, telleð, brecest, breceð, healdest, healdeð, dragest, drageð, bindest, bindeð, drífest, drífeð, clúfeð and the like, which often occur, especially in poetry: the shortened and modified forms hýrst, hýrð, telst, bricst &c. given in the grammar are more modern, and commonest in prose.

Page 44.—All verbs seem at first to have formed their 1st pers. pres. in -o or -u; comp. -w and L. -o: haf-o = L. hab-eo.

Page 50.—Most of the verbs in II. 2., and some in II. 3. are derived from the Goth. reduplicative verbs, which repeat the long syllable; the A. S. has kept only what may be called the literal augment, and that in but a few verbs; as. héht, leólc, reórd, from hátan, lácan (to play, deceive), rædan (G. reden to discourse), where the Goth.

has hái-háit, lái-láik, rái-ród from háitan &c. Some only alter the vowel. as sceape, sceóp, where the Goth has sái-skáp.

Page 54.—Verbs in -án form their part. pres. in -ánde; sleán, sleánde.

Page 58.—Writan is an exception to the general rule that complex verbs change tinto d in the 2nd pers. sing., and in the plural of the imperf., and in the past part.: see cwetan p. 50, weortan p. 57, and seótan p. 60, which are all regular.

Page 62.—Complex participles past sometimes agree like adjectives with a noun, sometimes do not; as, pa bing be him ge-sende waron the things that were sent him. Seó óðre naman wæs Tate haten who by another name was hight Tate.

The part, past in the pluperfect is sometimes governed in the accus, by the auxiliary hæbban, as, pá híg hæfdon hyra lof-sang ge-sungenne when they had sung their song of praise.

Page 63.—Un-sometimes, as in G., is not merely negative, but implies badness; un-pe á w bad habit, un-weder (G. un-ge-witter) storm, bad weather.

The prefix to- must be carefully distinguished from the preposition to in composition; as, to-gán to go asunder, separate, tó-gán to go to; G. zer-gehen, zu-gehen: to- implies division, dispersion of parts, and hence often destruction.

Page 64.—For- gives in general a negative or bad sense, or is intensive, much like κατα-; déman to judge, for-déman to condemn, κρινειν, κατα-κρινειν, G. ur-theilen, ver-urtheilen; bernan to burn, for-bernan to burn up, consume, καιειν, κατα-καιειν, G. brennen, ver-brennen; dón to do, make, for-dón to un-do, ruin, destroy; scyppan to form, for-scyppan to transform, deform; for-fela very many. This prefix must not be confounded with the prepositions for and fore; (probably of the same origin, = L. pro); thus for-seón is to over-look, de-spise, G. ver-sehen; for-seón, fore-seón to fore-see, G. vor-sehen; for-gán to for-go, do without, perish, G. ver-gehen, L. per-ire; for e-gán to fore-go, go before, G. vor-gehen, L. præ-ire. It is as wrong to write fore-go for for-go, as fore-give for for-give.

And-answers closely to ἀντι-, denoting opposition, reciprocity &c.; and-saca denier; and-wyrdan, and-swarian, ἀντ-ερειν to answer; and-wlítan, ἀντι βλεπειν, to gaze at, look in the face.

The prefix ge- is in A.S. used oftener and more indiscriminately than in any kindred language old or new. Though originally conveying no notion of past time, it seems gradually to have acquired it, and to have become a kind of syllabic augment to imperfects, but especially to participles past, as in Dutch and German. In the formation of English it was by degrees dropt before all but participles past, where it first became i- or y-, and has since been lost altogether, surviving only as a- in some P. words. In G. and D. it is still in use before nouns, adjectives &c., but in general with a distinct effect on their meaning, referible to its original collective force. A.S. ge-sometimes denotes the result of doing a thing; as, Ge-slóh þín fæder fæhða mæste thy father by striking avenged the greatest of feuds. His feorh ge-faran oððe ge-irnan to save his life by going or running (to a sanctuary).

Page 65.—The prefix or- (left out in the right place) denotes want of a thing; as, or-mæte im-mense, measure-less, or-trúwian to de-spair, or-sorh care-less, se-cure: it must not be confounded with or- in or-eald very old, (G. ur-alt), from or, ord beginning, point, connected with L. or-ior, or-igo &c.

The ending -e l, -o l, answers sometimes to L. -ul-um; gyrd-el, L. cing-ulum, girdle.

The primary meaning of -ing is young, and hence it forms patronymics, and terms of contempt &c.: -ling has been supposed to be derived from -ing.

Page 66.—Other feminines in -en are menn-en from man, G. mann, männin; gyd-en from god, G. gott, gött-in, D. god, god-in: in -e; fyl-e, filly, from fol-a foal; wal-e from wealh or wal-a, Celt, stranger; webb-e (or webb-estre web-ster), from webb-a weaver.

The ending -estre (like D. -ster) is feminine only, and the notion of thus forming nouns of contempt &c., as pun-ster, trick-ster, road-ster is modern.

The ending dom is properly a noun (II. 2.) doom, judgment, authority, dignity: had is also a noun (II. 2.) state, condition, rank, Holy Orders.

Page 67.—scipe (not occurring alone) is related to scapan, (sceapan), to shape, form, create, and denotes form, mode, condition; land-scape, or land-skip, (land-scipe) G. land-schaft, D. land-schap, should in rule be land-ship, unless borrowed, like a few other words, directly from the Dutch.

The adjective ending -ig answers to ik-oc, L. -ic-us.

Page 68.—A. S. -isc had often a bad sense, which E., G., and D. -ish, -isch, -sch almost always have, except when added to local names; the three former often contrast with -lic, -like or -ly, G. -lich, which convey a good or indifferent notion; as, folc-isc vulgar (Chaucer has pepl-ish), folc-lic popular; cild-isc child-ish, G. kind-isch, cild-lic child-like, G. kind-lich; compare also mann-ish, man-like, man-ly, G. männ-isch, männ-lich; woman-ish, woman-ly, G. weib-isch, weib-lich; girl-ish, maiden-ly &c.

While -ol (-ul) answers in form to L. -ul-us, in sense it is more like -ax, commonly denoting a wrong propensity; as, sprec-ol, cwid-ol, L. loqu-ax, dic-ax talkative, evil-tongued; et-ol, L. ed-ax greedy. Sometimes as in só 5-sag-ol truth-telling, deóp-panc-ol deep-thinking, it expresses a good quality.

-en (G. -ern, -en) usually denotes the material of which a thing is made; as, stæn-en of stone, G. stein-ern; treó w-en treen, wood-en; gyld-en gold-en, G. gold-en; lin-en lin-en, of lin or flax, G. lein-en; from stån, treów, gold, lin. Several words thus formed are now obsolete; ston-en, brick-en &c. are still in P. use.

-cund answers to L. -cund-us.

Some adjectives are formed in -ed or -d like simple participles past, as, ge-hyrned horn-ed, (G. ge-hörn-t); ge-sce od shod (G. ge-schuh-t); the rest of the verb, if any, is here wanting.

Page 69.—-c-, -n-, -s-, in these and the like verbs represent lost syllables; therefore swin-s-ian (to make melody) is no exception to the rule against ns in the same syllable; see p. 2. n. 1.

The verbal endings -ian and -an $(-\epsilon \iota \nu)$, G. and D. -an) became in . time -en and -e, the latter of which has in many cases been dropt, in all has lost its sound. Such verbs as whit-en, black-en are of modern use, to white and the like being the older form.

Page 71.—Other adverbs in common use are: á aye, always, æfre (G. and D. immer) ever, næfre (G. and D. nimmer) never, ædre straightway, recene instantly, eft-sona eft-soon, forth-with, endemes at length, þær-rihte (for ð-rihte) forthwith, elles else, otherwise, elles-hwider else-whither, ellor elsewhere, þus (D. dus) thus, georne (G. gerne) earnestly, willingly, þearle very, exceedingly, geara well, accurately, (lyt-)hwon a little (S. a wheen), hugu (hwegu), hwæt-(hwylc)-hugu &c. somewhat, a little, þances gratis, ágnes þances of one's own accord, his &c. willan, unwillan with, against his &c. will, semninga suddenly, hrædinga quickly, áninga (æninga) alone, only, on bæc-ling backward. Sona is construed with a genitive; as, Sona þæs soon after that. Sona þæs wintres early in the winter.

Page 72.—It seems likely that the first part of the word Oxena-ford is not from oxa ox, but from the Celtic root meaning water, river, (A. S. wos is ooze, liquid) which appears in Ouse (many) Isis, Ex, Ax, Usk, Esk, Oise, Aisne, Yssel, Oxus, and so many other names of rivers; and this is confirmed by Ousn-ey in the neighbourhood. Ford of oxen is however the strict meaning of the A.S. name, and doubtless the one then attached to it; Bo_{ζ} - $\pi o\rho o_{\zeta}$, Schwein-furt, Swin-ford and the like supply fair analogies.

Ofer-sometimes conveys the same idea as for-; ofer-gitan (= for-gitan) to forget, ofer-hycgan = for-hycgan to despise.

Of- beside its intensive force (p. 105. n. 2.) sometimes has a bad one; as, me pinco me thinks, me of-pinco it repenteth me. I take it ill.

Page 73.—Our prefix a- has in general sprung from the A. S. on-(an-, a-), and on is still sometimes used for it; as, a-float, A. S. onflote; a-live, A. S. on-life (G. am leben); a-two (in-two), A. S. on-twá; a-feared, A. S. a-fered; O. on flote, on life, on two, also on sleep, on row &c. now a-sleep &c.; we yet say on board, or a-board, on fire, or a-fire and the like: see also p. 69—71, 73.

In some words a- is from A. S. of-; as, of-dúne (a-dúne, a-dún) a-down, down (= G. berg-ab); of-byrst a-thirst; we say too of hin or a-hin; it is therefore not unlikely that in other cases A. S. a-may, as the sense would imply, have sprung from of-; thus a-faran to depart, a-wendan to turn away, a-weorpan to cast off, answer to G. ab-fahren, and G. and D. ab-wenden, af-wenden, ab-werfen, afwerpen: so $\dot{\alpha}\pi_0$, $\dot{\alpha}\pi'$ became L. ab, and that in time a. Once or twice E. a- is from A. S. ge-; as ge-líc (O. y-like), a-like; ge-mang (O. e-mong), a-mong.

Page 77.—Adjectives also take an abl. or dat. of the cause &c., which commonly stands first; as, I ú-d á d u m fá h stained with (my) former deeds. Wundum wérig weary with wounds.

Likewise of the person &c. by whom the action implied is done; as, His freondum or-wene despaired of by his friends. Wurdfull ham cyningum to be honoured by hings. Un-a-secgendlic anigum unspeakable by any.

Adjectives in general govern the object to which they have relation in the dative; as, Ic eom getrýwe mínon hláforde I am true to my lord. He was me yrre he was angry with me. Dryhten was þám folce gram (the) Lord was wroth with the people.

Adjectives denoting nearness also govern the dative; as, A'n bis cop pe him bá hendest wæs a bishop that was then nearest (handiest) to him.

Some adverbs take the same case as the adjectives whence they are formed: N\u00e4nig him ge-lice \u00ea\u00e4t d\u00f3n meahte none could do that like him.

Page 79.—The following verbs also govern the dative of the far object: secgan to say, tell, bodian to preach, announce, beódan to offer, and-wyrdan, and-swarian to answer, gifan to give, for-gifan to give away, forgive, syllan to give, sell (of which examples need not be given), wid-in et an to compare, measure with. ge-an-lician to liken, make like; yrsian to be angry with, atfilhan to approach, apply to, wisian (wissian) to guide, direct, fore-wesan (L. præ-esse) to govern, be over, be-sárgian to pity, be sorry for, have a dative of the near object; losian to be lost, escape from, one of the person affected; as, Hire fær is widmeten fyrd-licum truman her going is compared to an army on the march. Ic eom yslum and axum ge-an-licod I am made like cinders and ashes. Se-be yrsad his bréder he that is angry with his brother. Nó ic him bæs georne æt-fealh I did not therefore willingly approach him. pæt hig minton þám folce wel wissian that they might guide the people well. Midbý heó bá feala geara bissum mynstre fore-wæs when she then many years had ruled this convent. Dá be-sárgode he bære sorh-fullan meder then pitied he the sorrowful mother. Him losade án sceáp he had lost one sheep.

Some of the verbs having a dative &c. of the object to which the action is directed, govern the thing done in the accusative; as, Déma & rihtne dóm judge right judgment.

Page 81.—The following verbs are sometimes used in the usual reflective way with the pronoun in the accusative: gebiddan to pray, warnian to be ware, belgan to be angry, gewraðian to be wroth; as, ponne þú þe gebidde when thou prayest. Warniað eów fram mannum be ware of men. Warniað wið þa bóceras be ware of the scribes. Þá bealh he hine then was he angry. Ge belgað wið me ye are angry with me. Þá gewraðede hine se arce-biscop Landfranc then was the archbishop Lanfranc wroth.

Likewise some compounds of seón; as, Hine &c. for-seón (G. sich ver-sehen) to err, commit an oversight, sin. Gif he hine under-bæc be-sáwe if he should look back.

Page 81-3.-Wealdan, on-fon, éhtan, bidan, and earnian sometimes govern the accusative.

Page 83.—On-bracian to dread, feel horror at governs the genitive like on-drædan; as, An-braciende bæs un-ge-limpes feeling horror at the misfortune.

Page 87.—Be and to sometimes govern the ablative; as, Be þý mæg ælc mon witan by that may each man know. Tó-þý-þæt (= tó-þón þæt) in order that. Tó-h wý why?

As æt is sometimes to, so is tó sometimes at; the two are now and then confounded in E., and G. zu stands for both. Tó and æt (the latter in composition often) sometimes mean from, the former especially with wilnian and sécan; as, Ealle tó þe ætes wilniað all from thee desire food. Manna gehwylc se-þe séceð tó him every man that seeketh from him. He þæt ful ge-þeah æt Wealh-þeón he took the cup from (at the hand of) Wealh-theó.

Tó meaning motion to, has sometimes, though seldom, an accusative: He fór tó Samariam þæt land he went to the land of Samaria.

Page 88.—Tó-emnes (a rare word) rather by, along-side, overagainst than along, is from efen (efn, emn) even, equal; on-efn (emn) is the same; Him on-efn liged ealdor-ge-winna by him lieth (his) deadly foe. Emn-, em-are common in composition; emn-lang (G. eben (so) lang) of the same length; em-leóf (G. eben (so) lieb) equally dear; em-þeów fellow-slave.

Page 90.—Innon, úton, and úppon should not be divided, on (-an) being here only an ending and not the preposition on, serving in the two last to change the adverb into a preposition.

Page 93.—penden while sometimes has a subjunctive; as, penden hit hat sý while it be hot.

Page 95.—For-standan (or fore-standan) to defend, stand before, likewise for-standan (G. ver-stehen) to understand govern the accusative; as, Hine God for-stód him God defended.

Page 96.—Other conjunctions are swá-same-swá the same as—, in like manner as—, ná-læs þæt án ac— not (that) only but—, nates-hwón by no means, nóht-þón-læs never-(nought)-the-less, gea yea, ná nay, gese yes, nese no, næs (nas) not, huru moreover, chiefly, huru-þinga at least, þæs-þe since, after that, because, for-hwón, tó-hwón (=for-hwý) hwy, þæs(-for) for that, therefore, gen, gena yet.

Comp. οὐκ ἐχομεν εἰ μη—we have (not) but—, one only of the many instances of likeness between the Gr. and A. S. syntax.

We or be too may be either expressed or understood; as, Wá (we or be) bam men! wo worth the man!

Page 97.—Lo! has no more to do with look than O. gif has with gifan: our vulgar law! and lawk! may also be derived from lá!

Page 98.—Which Latin translation the A. S. versions of the Holy Scripture are taken from is hard to say; this only is certain that the A. S. Gospels follow the Vulgate more closely than the Heptateuch does. The Latin MSS. doubtless varied much, and the A. S. is now and then seemingly not an accurate rendering of any one. Ælfríc was a common name; among those who bore it, were an Archbishop of Canterbury, and one of York, of whom the latter is believed to have translated the parts of the O. Testament known as the Heptateuch.

Page 133.—Teóhhian (from teóh, p. 152. n. 3.) means also to furnish, provide, fit out, and perhaps should be so rendered in the extract from Boëthius, where its meaning is not very clear.

Page 140.—Tó- in tó-geanes sometimes does not rime (see p. 158, last line) though seemingly always in other combinations: to- on the other hand never rimes.

VALUABLE AND INTERESTING BOOKS,

PUBLISHED OR SOLD BY

JOHN RUSSELL SMITH,

36, SOHO SQUARE, LONDON.

A Compendious Anglo-Saxon and English Dictionary, by the Rev. Joseph Bosworth, D.D., Anglo-Saxon Professor in the University of Oxford, &c. 8vo. closely printed in treble columns, cloth, 12s

This may be considered quite a new work from the author's former Dictionary: it has been entirely remodelled and enlarged, bringing it down to the present state of Anglo-Saxon literature both at home and abroad.

Anglo-Saxon Delectus; serving as a first Class-Book to the Language. By the Rev. W. Barnes, B.D., of St. John's Coll. Camb. 12mo. cloth, 2s 6d

"To those who wish to possess a critical knowledge of their own Native English, some aquaintance with Auglo-Saxon is indispensable; and we have never seen an introduction better calculated than the present to supply the wants of a beginner in a short space of time. The declensions and conjugations are well stated, and illustrated by references to the Greek, Latin, French and other languages. A philosophical spirit pervades every part. The lettes consists of short pieces on various subjects, with extracts from Anglo-Saxon History and the Saxon Chronicle. There is a good Glossary at the end."—Athenæum, Oct 20, 1849.

The Anglo-Saxon Version of the Life of St. Guthlac, Hermit of Croyland. Printed for the first time, from a MS. in the Cottonian Library, with a Translation and Notes, by Charles Wycliffe Goodwin, M.A., Fellow of Catherine Hall, Cambridge, 12mo. eloth, 5s

An Introduction to Anglo-Saxon Reading; comprising Ælfric's Homily on the Birthday of St. Gregory, with a copious Glossary, &c. by L. Langley, F.L.S. 12mo. cloth, 2s 6d

Ælfric's Homily is remarkable for beauty of composition, and interesting as setting forth Augustine's mission to the "Land of the Angles."

Analecta Anglo-Saxonica. — Selections, in Prose and Verse, from Anglo-Saxon Literature, with an Introductory Ethnological Essay, and Notes, Critical and Explanatory, by Louis F. Klipstein, of the University of Giessen, 2 thick vols. post 8vo. cloth, 12s (original price, 18s)

Containing an immense body of information on a language which is now becoming more fully appreciated, and which contains if een-twentieths of what we daily think, and speak, and write. No Englishman, therefore, altogetherignorant of Anglo-Saxon, can have a thorough knowledge of his own mother-tongue; while the language itself, to say no hing of the many valuable and interesting works preserved in it, may, in copiousness of words strength of expression, and grammatical precision, vie with the modern German.

Anglo-Saxon Version of the Hexameron of St Basil, and the Anglo-Saxon Remains of St. Basil's Admonitio ad Filiuw Sciritualem; now first printed from MSS. in the Bodleian Library, with a Translation and Notes, by the Rev. H. W. Norman, 8vo. second Edition, enlarged, sexed, 4s

Skelton's (John, Poet Laureat to Henry VIII.)

Poetical Works: the Bowge of Court, Colin Clout, Why come ye not to Court? (his celebrated Satire on Wolsey), Philip Sparrow, Elinour Rumming, &c.; with Notes and Life, by the Rev. A. DYCE, 2 vols. 8vo. cloth. 16s (original price, £1. 12s)

"The power, the strangeness, the volubility of his language, the audacity of his satire, and the perfect originality of his manner, made Skelton one of the most extraordinary writers of any age or country."—Southey.

"Skelton is a curious, able, and remarkable writer, with strong sense, a vein of humour, and some imagination; he had a wonderful command of the English language, and one who was styled, in his turn, by as great a scholar as ever lived (Eramus), 'the light and ornament of Britain.' He indulged very freely in his writings in censures on monks and Dominicans: and, moreover, had the hardthood to reflect, in no very mild terms, on the manners and life of Cardinal Wolsey. We cannot help considering Skelton as an ornament of his own time, and a benefactor to those who come after him.

New Life of Shakespeare, including many particulars respecting the Poet and his Family, never before published, by J. O. HALLIWELL, F.R.S., in one handsome vol., 8vo. illustrated with 76 engravings on wood, of objects, most of which are new, from drawings by FAIRHOLT, cloth, 15s

This work contains upwards of forty documents respecting Shakespeare and his Family, never before published, besides numerous others indirectly illustrating the Poet's Biogra-All the anecdotes and traditions concerning Shakespeare are here, for the first time collected, and much new light is thrown on his personal history, by papers exhibiting him as selling Malt and Stone, &c. Of the seventy-six engravings which illustrate the volume, more than fifty have never before been engraved.

It is the only Life of Shakespeare to be bought separately from his Works.

This work comprises a list of nearly three thousand Tokens, and contains occasional illustrative topographical and antiquarian notes on persons, places, streets, old tavern and coffee-house signs, &c. &c. with an introductory account of the causes which led to the adoption of such a currency.

Coins of the Romans relating to Britain, described and illustrated, by J. Y. Akerman, F.S.A. Second Edition, greatly enlarged, 8vo. with plates and woodcuts, 10s 6d

The "Prix de Numismatique" was awarded by the French Institute to the author for this work.

"Mr. Akerman's volume contains a notice of every known variety, with copious illustrations, and is published at a very moderate price; it should be consulted, not merely for these particular coins, but also for facts most valuable to all who are interested in the Romano-British History."—Archæological Journal.

Numismatic Illustrations of the Narrative Portions of the New Testament, by J. Y. AKERMAN, 8vo. numerous moodcuts from the original coins in various public and private collections, cloth, 5s

"The New Testament has, it appears, in the compass of the Gospel and Acts, no less than 32 allusions to the coinage of Greece, Rome, and Judæa; and these beautifully engraved, and learnedly described, give Mr. Akerman an opportunity of serving he good cause of truth in the way of his peculiar avocation."—Church of England Journal.

English Surnames. An Essay on Family Nomenclature, Historical, Etymological, and Humourous; with several illustrative Appendices, by Mark Antony Lower, M.A., 2 vols. post 8vo. Third Edition, Enlarged, moodcuts, cloth, 12s

This new and much improved Edition, besides a great enlargement of the Chapters contained in the previous editions, comprises several that are entirely new, together with Notes on Scottish, Irish, and Norman Surnames. The "Additional Prolusions," besides the articles on Rebuses, Allusive Arms, and the Roll of Battel Abbey, contain dissertations on Inn signs, and Remarks on Christian Names: with a copious INDEX of many thousand Names. These features render "English Surnames" rather a new work than a new edition.

Remains of Pagan Saxondom, principally from Tumuli in England. Drawn from the Originals. Described and illustrated by J. Y. AKERMAN, Fellow and Secretary of the Society of Antiquaries, 4to. 40 FINE COLOURED PLATES, half morocco, £2. 12s 6d

The plates are admirably executed by Mr. Basire, and coloured under the direction of the Author. It is a work well worthy the notice of the Archæologist.

Curiosities of Heraldry, with Illustrations from Old

English Writers, by MARK ANTONY LOWER, M.A., author of "Essays on English Surnames," with illuminated Title-page, and numerous engravings from designs by the author, 8vo. cloth, 14s

"Mr. Lower's work is both curious and instructive, while the manner of its treatment is so inviting and popular, that the subject to which it refers, which many have hitherto had too good reason to consider meagre and unprofitable, assumes, under the hands of the writer, the novelty of fiction with the importance of historical truth."-Athenaum.

A Grammar of British Heraldry, consisting of "Blazon" and "Marshalling," with an Introduction on the Rise and Progress of Symbols and Ensigns, by the Rev. W. Sloane Evans, B.A., 8vo. with 26 plates, comprising upwards of 400 figures, cloth, 5s

One of the best introductions ever published.

Genealogical and Heraldic History of the Extinct and Dormant Baronetcies of England, Ireland, and Scotland, by J. BURKE, Esq., medium 8vo. Second Edition, 638 closely printed pages, in double columns, with about 1000 arms engraved on wood, fine portrait of James I. cloth, 10s (original price, £1. 8s)

This work engaged the attention of the author for several years, comprises nearly a thousand families, many of them amongst the most ancient and eminent in the kingdom, each carried down to its representative or representatives still existing, with elaborate and minute details of the alliances, achievements, and fortunes; generation after generation, from the earliest to the latest period.

Handbook to the Library of the British Museum, containing a brief History of its Formation, and of the various Collections of which it is composed; Descriptions of the Catalogues in present use; Classed Lists of the Manuscripts, &c.; and a variety of Information indispensable for Literary persons; with some Account of the principal Public Libraries in London, by RICHARD SIMS, of the Department of Manuscripts, Compiler of the "Index to the Heralds' Visitations," small 8vo. pp. 438, with map and plan, cloth, 58

It will be found a very useful work to every literary person or public institution in all parts of the world.

What Mr. Antonio Panizzi, the keeper of the department of printed books, says might be done, Mr. Richard Sims, of the department of manuscripts, says shall be done. His Hand-book to the Library of the British Museum is a very comprehensive and inscructive volume. I have the sixtleth edition of "Synopsis of the Contents of the British Museum" before me—I cannot expect to see a sixtleth edition of the Hand-book, but it deserves to be placed by the side of the Synopsis, and I venture to predict for it a wide circulation. Mr. Bolton Corney, in Notes and Queries, No. 213.

Proverb Rhymes, Places, and Families, Superstition Rhymes, Custom Rhymes and Nursery Songs; a large number are here printed for the first time. It may be considered a sequel to the preceding article.

Old Songs and Ballads.—A Little Book of Songs and Ballads, gathered from Ancient Music Books, MS. and Printed, by E. F. RIMBAULT, LL.D., F.S.A., &c., elegantly printed in post 8vo. pp. 240, half morocco, 6s

"Dr. Rimbault has been at some pains to collect the words of the Songs which used to delight the Rustics of former times."—Atlas.

Anecdotes and Characters of Books and Men. Collected from the Conversation of Mr. Pope and other eminent Persons of his Time, by the Rev. Joseph Spence, with Notes, Life, &c. by S. W. Singer. The second edition, fcap. 8vo. portrait, elegantly printed by Whittingham, cloth, 6s

"The 'Anecdotes' of kind-hearted Mr. Spence, the friend of Pope, is one of the best books of ana in the English language."—Critic.

The Table Talk of John Selden. With a Biographical Preface and Notes by S. W. Singer, fcap. 8vo. third edition, portrait, cloth, 5s

There are few volumes of its size so pregnant with sense, combined with the most profound learning; it is impossible to open it without inding some important fact or discussion, something practically useful and applicable to the business of life. Coleridge eavs, "There is more weighty bullion sense in this book than I ever found in the same number of pages in any uninspired writer."

Life, Progresses, and Rebellion of James, Duke of Monmouth, &c. to his Capture and Execution, with a full account of the "Bloody Assize," under Judge Jefferies, and copious Biographical Notices, by George Roberts, 2 vols. post 8vo. plates and cuts, cloth, 7s 6d (original price, £1. 4s)

Two very interesting volumes, particularly so to those connected with the West of England.

A Dictionary of Old English Plays, existing either in print or in manuscript, from the earliest times to the close of the 17th century, including also Notices of Latin Plays written by English Authors during the same period, with particulars of their Authors, Plots, Characters, &c. by James Orchard Halliwell, Esq., F.R.S., 8vo. cloth, 12s

 Twenty-five copies have been printed on thick paper, price £1. 1s.

Anecdota Literaria; a Collection of Short Poems in English, Latin, and French, illustrative of the Literature and History of England in the XIIIth Century; and more especially of the Condition and Manners of the different Classes of Society, by T. Wright, M.A., F.S.A., &c. 8vo. cloth, only 250 copies printed, 5s

Dictionary of Archaic and Provincial Words, Obsolete Phrases, Proverbs, and Ancient Customs, from the Reign of Edward I., by James Orchard Halliwell, F.R.S., F.S.A., &c. 2 vols. 8vo. containing upwards of 1000 pages, closely printed in double columns, cloth, a new and cheaper edition, 155

It contains above 50,000 words (embodying all the known scattered glossaries of the English language), forming a complete key for the reader of our old Poets, Dramatista, Theologians, and other authors, whose works abound with allusions, of which explanations are not to be found in ordinary Dictionaries and books of reference. Most of the principal Archaisms are illustrated by examples selected from early inedited MSS, and rare books, and by far the greater portion will be found to be original authorities.

A Glossary; or, Collection of Words, Phrases, Customs, Proverbs, &c., illustrating the Works of English Authors, particularly Shakespeare and his Contemporaries, by Robert Nares, Archdeacon of Stafford, &c., a new Edition, with considerable Additions, both of Words and Examples, by James O. Halliwell, F.R.S., and Thomas Wright, M.A., F.S.A., 2 thick vols. 8vo. cloth, £1. 8s

The Glossary of Archdeacon Nares is by far the best and most useful work we possess for explaining and illustrating the obsolete language and the customs and manners of the sixteenth and sevent-eventh centuries, and it is quite indispensable for the readers of the literature of the Elizabethan period. The additional words and examples are distinguished from those in the original text by a † prefixed to each. The work contains between five and six thousand additional examples, the result of original research, not merely supplementary to Nares, but to all other compilations of the kind.

A Glossary of Northamptonshire Words and Phrases; with examples of their colloquial use, with illustrations, from various Authors; to which are added, the Customs of the County, by Miss A. E. Baker, 2 vols. post 8vo. cloth, 16s (original price, £1. 4s)

"We are under great obligations to the lady, sister to the local historian of Northamptonshire, who has occupied her time in producing this very capital Glossary of Northamptonshire provincialisms."—Examiner.

Poems of Rural Life, in the Dorset Dialect, with a Dissertation and Glossary, by the Rev. Wm. BARNES, B.D., second edition, enlarged and corrected, royal 12mo. cloth, 10s

Hwomely Rhymes; a Second Collection of Poems in the Dorset Dialect, by the Rev. W. BARNES, royal 12mo. cloth, 5s 1859

"The author is a genuine poet, and it is delightful to catch the pure breath of song in verses which assert themselves only as the modest vehicle of rare words and Saxon inflections. We have no intention of setting up the Dorset patois against the more extended provincialism of Scotland, still less of comparing the Dorsetshire poet with the Scotch; yet we feel sure that these poems would have delighted the heart of Burns, that many of them are not unworthy of him, and that (at any rate) his bestproductions cannot express a more cordial sympathy with external nature, or a more loving interest in human joys and sorrows."-Literary Gazette.

Dialect of South Lancashire; or, Tim Bobbin's

Tummus and Meary; revised and corrected, with his Rhymes, and an enlarged Glossary of Words and Phrases, chiefly used by the Rural Population of the Manufacturing Districts of South Lancashire, by SAMUEL Bamford, 12mo. second edition, cloth, 3s 6d

Barnes (Rev. W.) Notes on Ancient Britain and the Britons, fcap, 8vo. cloth, 3s

"A little book in exactly inverse proportion to its great merit; its contents might have been amplified into a huge octavo. As it is, it is an invaluable manual; and to any thoughtful individual, disposed to the preparation of a series of lectures on our early history, it would be a difficult task to point out a more suggestive book in the English tongue."—Munchester Advertiser.

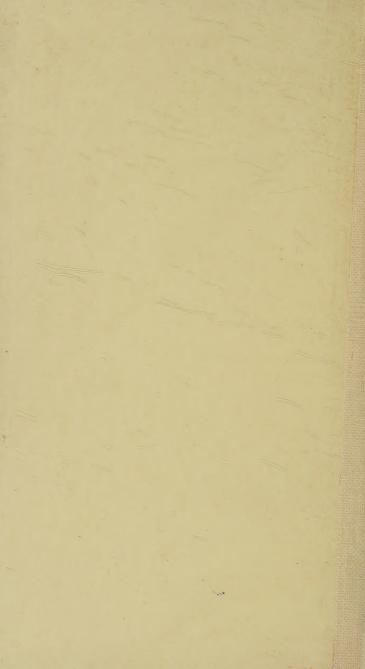

Views of Labour and Gold, by the Rev. W. BARNES, B.D., Author of "Poems in the Dorset Dialect," "Notes on Ancient Britain," &c. 12mo. cloth, 3s

"Mr. Barnes is a reader and a thinker. He has a third and a conspicuous merit-his style is perfectly lucid and simple. If the humblest reader of ordinary intelligence desired to follow out the process by which societies are built up and held together, he has but to betake himself to the study of Mr. Barnes's epitome. The title, 'Views of Labour and Gold,' cannot be said to indicate the scope of the Essays, which open with pictures of primitive life, and pass on, through an agreeable and diversified range of topics, to considerations of the rights, duties, and interests of Labour and Capital, and to the inquiry what constitutes the utility, wealth, and positive well-being of a Nation? Subjects of this class are rarely haudled with so firm a grasp and such light and artistic manipulations."

Biblia Pauperum, reproduced in facsimile from one of the Copies in the British Museum, with an Historical and Bibliographical Introduction by J. PH. BERJEAU, royal 4to. with 40 plates, half morocco, £2, 2s

As a specimen of the earliest Woodcuts, and of printed Block-books, destined to supersede the Manuscripts anterior to the valuable Invention of Guttenburg, the "Biblia Pauperum" (excented between 1420 and 1436) is well worthy the attention of the Amateur of the Fine Arts, as well as of the Bibliographer. It is printed uniformly with Mr. S. Leigh Sotheby's "Principla Typographica." sussing !
